BARKING DAYLIGHT ROBBERY IN VANCOUVER

NEW PREMIER OF FRANCE MAY BE G. BONNET

Other Reports in Paris Say Camille Chautemps Will Head New Ministry Strong Cabinet To Save Franc Urged

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Paris, Nov. 24.—Alarmed French leaders told President Lebrun to-day it was imperative to have a solid government to protect the franc and end national instability.
A wave of resentment at the succeeding cabinet crisis was reflected by Jules Jeanneney and Joseph Caillaux, who, speaking of Premier Sarraut's government's downfall early to-day, said: "It was a crime to overthrow the government under present circumstances."
Two different names for the premiership were rumored in two distinct circles of the government to-day. Official sources said they expected President Lebrun to ask Georges Bonnet, Minister of Finance in the late cabinet, to take the premiership, and in the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies it was said, Camille Chautemps, Minister of the Interior, might be called to power.
President Lebrun is known to admire M. Bonnet and was said to be hopeful of a quick selection of a competent financial cabinet in order to avert danger for the franc.
HERIOT STANDS ASIDE
Friends of Edouard Herriot, former Premier, insisted the time was not ripe for his resumption of power.
Through the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies, which has overthrown three cabinets already this year, ran the prediction that President Lebrun would offer the premiership to M. Herriot, as a courtesy, that M. Herriot would refuse, and that then the President would turn to Camille Chautemps, Minister of the Interior in the Sarraut Cabinet.
M. Chautemps, it was said, plans a resumption of the cartel, believing he would receive the support of the Socialists and fearing an eventual "public safety" cabinet otherwise.

WHERE GOLD IS SEEN DAILY

With all the world discussing gold while President Roosevelt swings the value of the dollar in the United States, the above picture gives a glimpse of how the precious metal is handled at one point in South Africa, which country is a big producer. It shows a staff weighing gold bars at the Rand Refinery, Germiston, before shipping them away. The bars on the small truck are worth many thousands of dollars.

The plane, owned by the Pacific American Airways, a Chinese concern owned jointly by the Chinese government and Pan-American Airways, was reported carrying seven passengers and two pilots, one of whom was understood to be George Rumill, a United States citizen.
The plane was said to have crashed against a mountain on Chusan Island during a heavy fog. All the occupants of the plane were reported hurt.
The plane, a Sikorsky, was inaugurating a Shanghai-to-Canton passenger service.

WOMAN SHOT BY PHYSICIAN

Dr. Alice Wynkoop Tells Chicago Police Daughter-in-law Unconscious Before That

Coroner's Jury Says Death Due to Gunshot Wound and Shock

Associated Press
Chicago, Nov. 24.—The confession of Dr. Alice Wynkoop that she had fired a bullet into the back of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, while the girl was unconscious, was announced to-day by Police Capt. John Steg.
Breaking down at last after nearly three days of exhausting examination, the sixty-two-year-old woman physician acknowledged she had administered chloroform to her son's twenty-three-year-old wife, in examining her for a pelvic pain of which the girl had complained.
She had gone to her surgical office in the basement of her Monroe Street house last Tuesday afternoon to find Rheta partly undressed, weighing herself, she said.
WAS IN PAIN
Rheta complained of severe pains, Dr. Wynkoop said, and she placed the young woman on her operating table and began to administer chloroform to ease the pain and facilitate examination.
Dr. Wynkoop told Capt. Steg she kept asking Rheta if she could feel the pain and that her daughter-in-law continued to answer affirmatively. Finally, the physician explained, Rheta became unconscious and for twenty-five minutes she tried strenuously to revive her.
When she realized she was losing ground, Dr. Wynkoop said she became panic stricken.
"All the events of my life flashed through my mind," Dr. Wynkoop said, "and I thought of a pistol in an adjoining room."
FIRE ONE SHOT
Fearful of blame for killing the girl with the anaesthetic, she said she obtained the pistol and, holding it five inches from the back of the unconscious girl, fired a single shot. That shot penetrated the shoulder blade and passed through Rheta's heart.
Captain Steg placed the time of the killing between 2:30 and 3 p.m. Tuesday, at a time when Dr. Wynkoop had said previously she was absent from the sixteen-room mansion.
For the first time since the mysterious killing, Dr. Wynkoop and her son, Earle, had met in the police quarters where both had been subjected to night-long questioning, separately.
Near the breaking point, but always protesting his innocence, the twenty-eight-year-old widower had

CHINESE FOUND DEAD IN BUSH

Foul Play Suspected in Death of Woodcutter Near Rough Creek on Malahat

Provincial Police to-day were investigating the mysterious death of Chin Ack, a Chinese woodcutter, found yesterday afternoon lying in thick underbrush near Rough Creek in the Malahat district, with a bullet wound in the chest.
The body was found at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Sam Hing Gin, head chinaman at the camp, and the discovery was reported to police at 7 o'clock.
Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, has ordered an inquest for Monday morning.
According to information available, there were no weapons discovered in the vicinity of the body and death might have been the result of foul play, police believe.
The body was guarded last night by Provincial Police, and this morning was removed to the city by order of the coroner. Inspector Robert Owens, Sergeant Richard Harvey and Constable Thomas Plander visited the scene this morning and took charge of police investigation.
According to police, the body was found lying on the left side, with the bullet wound in the right side of the chest. It was about a mile from the road, lying in the underbrush.

Premier Pattullo, who will be at Saturday's meeting, has previously made this appeal and has also made an urgent appeal for the return of Hon. John Hart as a man of inestimable value to the administration and the best finance minister British Columbia ever had.
The four Victoria candidates, Mr. Hart, Alderman W. H. Kinsman, Byron Johnson and J. B. Clearhue, will speak.

Pneumonia Given at Inquiry as Cause of One Death at Windsor, Ont., Shelter

Canadian Press
Windsor, Ont., Nov. 24.—Circumstances surrounding the death of "Buddy," five-year-old ward of the Shelter, were related to-day by Theresa Prestalor, former attendant, at the opening of the third day of hearings into charges of cruelty and mistreatment against the matron of the Windsor-Walkerville Children's Shelter, Miss Magdalene Strang, and the assistant matron, Miss Catherine Strang, her sister.
Buddy was spanked for a misdeed, "I saw the Misses Strang and Miss McDonald looking at bruises on Buddy and Miss Magdalene Strang said: 'What would the committee say if they saw that?'"
So the little boy was put in a bi-chloride of mercury bath to take away the bruise marks, Miss Prestalor said. He had been there half an hour when she saw him, and she thought he was poisoned.
"I wanted to go to the hospital and get a doctor, but Miss McDonald said no, and soon Miss Magdalene Strang came in," said the witness.
Miss Prestalor said she gave Buddy some soapy water. He was ill for two days subsequently, vomiting blood and blue slime in his bed. Later he was taken to hospital, where he died.

Wires Are Exchanged With Ottawa Preliminary to Eastern Visit

Frankness in Dealing With Problems Essential, Government Leader Says

Telegrams have been exchanged between Premier Pattullo and Ottawa preparing for his visit to the Dominion capital to present his plans for government to take the initiative in stimulating an industrial recovery policy to put workers back on payroll.
The Premier expressed the view this morning that probably all the provinces of Canada would welcome a Dominion conference but he had not been notified that such a conference was planned as reported in press dispatches. He had suggested to Ottawa that if such a conference was planned it would probably be advisable to hold it as early in the New Year as possible. Premiers of the different provinces would require some time to prepare the data on which they would base their recommendations.
TO GO EAST
Preparations for presenting British Columbia's case were proceeding, the Premier said, but with the change of administration and the deferred election it would hardly be possible to have everything in readiness before January. Whether a conference of the provinces was held or not Premier Pattullo will go to Ottawa to place his plans before Premier Bennett, he said this morning.
Frankness in dealing with problems facing the country was essential, Mr. Pattullo said. There had been some criticism of Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, for his plain speaking on the financial condition of the province with complaints that it would injure the credit of the province. It was a time for plain speaking and facing facts, the Premier maintained, and he intended to deal with situations as they found them.

Three Desperados Surprise Staff of Manufacturing Jewelers, Menace Men With Guns and Seize Diamonds and Money and Make Escape

Manager Allowed By Outside Man to Enter

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 24.—Three armed men perpetrated a daring holdup at 9 o'clock this morning at the premises of Trayling and Waters, manufacturing jewelers, on the upstairs floor at 326 West Hastings Street, making their getaway with an undetermined amount of cash and a quantity of jewelry.
An estimate given to the police listed the loss at $100 cash, $1,000 worth of unset diamonds and $1,000 worth of miscellaneous jewelry.
All the cash was cleaned out of the safe, which had been opened shortly before in course of the day's business. The jewelry was taken from the show counter and consisted mostly of signet rings and brooches.
EIGHT WORKERS SURPRISED
Eight employees were in the shop when the bandits staged their raid. Jack Waters, son of one of the members of the firm, was at the counter and seven others were in the adjoining room, which served as a factory.
One bandit covered Mr. Waters while another walked swiftly into the factory, flashed a gun and herded the employees back against the wall.
"Stick 'em up," he commanded. "How much money have you on hand?" he then demanded.
"We told him we had about $1.50," said Bert Trayling, foreman of the factory (but not the partner in the firm), in talking to newsmen after the robbery. "But I guess he found out differently. He was a damn-shaven, damn since $30. They only had to help themselves to all that was there."
The third bandit had meanwhile remained on watch outside the door on the platform at the head of the narrow stairway leading to the shop.
While the robbery was in progress, J. McKay, manager of the shop, arrived on the scene.
He walked innocently past the bandit outside, who made no move to stop him, but as soon as he was inside he found himself confronted by a man with a gun and was herded into the factory with the rest of the staff.
THUGS ARE THIRTY
Employees described the two men who entered the shop as being about thirty years old.
The man who remained in the outer office had masked his mouth with a white handkerchief, but the bandit who covered the factory crew went undisguised. He was a slim-shaven, dark-complexioned man about five feet five inches tall.

Government Doing Everything Possible to Make Teutons Partners Again in Disarmament Moves, Simon Tells Commons

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 24.—Sir John Simon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to-day told the House of Commons Great Britain was resolved to do everything possible to make Germany, which withdrew from the Disarmament Conference at Geneva last month, a partner again in the arms discussion.
Defending the procedure being followed in an effort to solve the disarmament problem, Sir John said there could have been no procedure against the nation of the "German's soul" than to have told her that withdrawal from the conference made no difference—that the convention would be completed and then she would be asked to sign on the dotted line.
"Germany," said Sir John, "is not a target for dictation; she is a partner for discussion."

Cox, Long and Company are large importers of Canadian lumber with headquarters in England. Mr. Govan took issue with an argument made by Timber Distributors Limited, which controlled the influx to the United Kingdom of Russian lumber.
While Timber Distributors were making the most of the facts, there was a degree of truth in their comments, he declared, and he added that Canadian exporters should be pleased with the present improvement in the shipments to the United Kingdom by both eastern and western dealers.

NEW PREMIER OF FRANCE MAY BE G. BONNET

Suddenly overthrown in a surprise vote after mounting to temporary victory in a test of confidence, the Sarbait government succumbed yesterday evening, still battling for a sound franc and a balanced budget. After four weeks of life the ministry was defeated on a minor amendment to its financial programme. The Chamber of Deputies voted 321 against 247. A previous vote had given M. Sarbait a majority of eighty-nine. The Centre majority group in the chamber, which earlier had rallied to save the life of the cabinet, deserted when the Premier, after an impassioned burst of oratory, conceded a change which previously had refused.

PLEADS FOR CONFIDENCE

Winston Churchill Detects Spirit of Self-abasement in the Empire

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Nov. 24.—Four hundred Canadian war veterans, holding their annual reunion and dinner here yesterday evening, heard Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, plead for more self-confidence in the British Commonwealth of Nations, which, he declared, appeared to have assumed a mood of self-abasement.

Mr. Churchill's speech was in reply to a toast in his honor proposed by Lieut.-Colonel Hamilton Gault, who raised the Princess Patricia Light Infantry, one of Canada's most famous fighting regiments of the Great War. ARMAMENTS INCREASE.

"No more war!" exclaimed Mr. Churchill. "Wars are over. The Kellogg Pact says they will never happen again, and all the nations signed on the dotted line. And so they all now are increasing their armaments rapidly. Did I say all? Well, all except one, which is resting on its oars for the moment."

"Why should the British Empire go to war?" he asked. "We have all the territory we want. All we now want is a little more wit and capital to develop it. The war has been won. All we have to do is see that what was won is not shamefully cast away. The British Empire should have more confidence in itself, for, nowadays, it seems to have fallen into a mood of self-abasement."

BURSTALL PRESIDED

The dinner was presided over by Major-General Sir Henry E. Burstall, who commanded the 2nd Canadian Infantry Division in France. Guests included Prince Arthur of Connaught, son of Canada's former Governor-General, and General Sir Archibald Montgomery-Massingberd, adjutant-general and general aide-de-camp to the King.

His Majesty sent a gracious reply to the meeting's loyal greetings. A message from Lord Byng of Viny said: "Warmest affection all the comrades." The message was cheered lustily, as was one from General Sir Arthur Currie's secretary. Every speaker made sympathetic reference to the former commander-in-chief of the Canadian Corps in France, now suffering an illness which kept him confined for several weeks in a Montreal hospital.

Memory of the fallen comrades was honored solemnly at the call of Rev. C. G. Walls, chaplain.

evening, Miss Catherine Strang, assistant matron, spanked it, she testified. A doctor was called the following morning and she understood pneumonia was given as the cause of the child's death.

ANOTHER GIRL DIED

Miss Estelle Coles, who said she was in charge of smaller children at the shelter for four months this year, told of a six-year-old child who, she said, went to a bathroom "very sick and vomiting blue slimes." The assistant matron, Miss Catherine Strang, ordered a dose of castor oil and had the little girl stretched out on the cold floor of the bathroom, she testified.

Later in the day the girl was removed to a hospital where she died. A timid, half-paralyzed sixteen-month-old girl, crying from nervousness, had her head bumped on the floor and her cries partly hushed by the hands of the assistant matron of the children's shelter, according to evidence given at yesterday's session of the inquiry into affairs at the shelter, where Miss Magdalena Strang is matron, being a sister of Miss Catherine Strang. After being bumped, the child was pushed under a table and left there for some time, witnesses said.

A ten-year-old girl had her arm twisted until she screamed and finally died in order to be released, it was testified.

The hearing is being conducted by M. A. Sorsoli, Deputy Minister of Public Health, sitting as commissioner.

WOMAN SHOT BY PHYSICIAN

said he knew of a motive, and wanted to see his mother.

On her shoulder he sobbed a plea that she admit her guilt if she had done it because of her great love for him. Looking solemnly into his reddened eyes, she said: "I didn't do it."

DESCRIBED AS DERANGED
 Earle had told the police his wife had been termed by a physician "slightly deranged," and that she had put iron filings and drugs in food at their home.

After their two-hour meeting, Earle had been led away to lunch. Then began the final questioning that resulted in the woman doctor's statement, professed to be unsatisfied.

Steg said he had found a blood-stained blanket in the house and had discovered it from Dr. Wynkoop.

Witnessing B. Gardner, father of the slain woman, was informed the mother-in-law's statement, he said:

"All I can say is, give her the limit."

TESTIFIES AT INQUEST

Dr. Wynkoop later took the stand and gave a sworn confession she had fired a bullet into the senseless form of her daughter-in-law.

A few minutes later the coroner's jury returned a verdict stating Rheta died of a gunshot wound and shock, the bullet having been fired from a gun held in the hand of Dr. Alice Wynkoop.

Wynkoop, who had fired a bullet into the senseless form of her daughter-in-law, was held for the grand jury for murder.

TEXT OF CONFESSION

The alleged confession of Dr. Alice Wynkoop as made public by Capt. John Steg and Dr. Harry Hoffmann, of the Cook County Behavior Clinic, follows:

British Pound Finishes Day at New York at $5.15

Canadian Press

New York, Nov. 24.—With the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's gold price again unchanged at $33.76 an ounce, sterling continued its retreat on the foreign exchange markets here to-day.

To-day's closing rate was $5.15, two days low mark and 1 1/4 cents below yesterday evening. The high on Wednesday was $5.45.

The decline in sterling rates, was orderly. The pound went down cent by cent to $5.17 1/2 at noon, and then slipped another two cents during the afternoon.

The Canadian dollar again lost more than a cent on the day, finishing at 1 1/4 cent premium as against 2 1/2 yesterday.

The French franc closed at 62, down 15 of a cent.

London, Nov. 24.—The United States dollar made another recovery on the foreign exchange market here to-day, closing at $5.11 to the pound sterling, 7 1/2 cents better than Thursday's unofficial close.

Announcement of the United States gold price was unchanged caused fresh buying which brought an improvement at the close.

BALLOT NEARLY A YARD LONG

United Front—Moir.

"PLUMPING"

There appears to be little understanding regarding "plumping," the returning officer commented this morning. Some voters appear to be under the impression they can register all four votes for one candidate. This is not so, he pointed out. Only one vote can be given for one candidate.

If there is more than one cross against a candidate's name the ballot paper will be thrown out. The ballot will be thrown out under the section of the Elections Act, which provides that no ballot may be marked in a manner that would make it possible to identify it as the paper put in the box by a certain elector.

Mr. Willis further explained that electors may vote for only one candidate and may vote for one, two, three or four, but only one cross must be against the name of a candidate.

Absentee ballots for Victorians who may happen to be visiting in Vancouver Centre on Monday, the day of the poll, have been shipped over to the mainland.

POLLING STATIONS

Electors will go to the polls between eight in the morning and eight in the evening, at which hour the polls will close.

Voting will take place at seven polling stations, one each to correspond to each of the five wards of the city, and two in Oak Bay, which is provincially part of this riding. The polling stations are as follows:

Ward One, 1318 Government Street; Ward Two, 2804 Douglas Street; Ward Three, 932 Johnson Street; Ward Four, Old Christ Church Cathedral schoolroom, Quadra Street; Ward Five, Old Devil Hall, Menzies Street; Ward Six, Sunday school room at corner of Granite and Mitchell streets (Oak Bay); Ward Seven, 1700 Hampshire Road (Oak Bay).

about 1.30 or 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Rheta decided she would go to the Loop and buy some music.

"She went down to my surgical chamber to weigh herself when she changed her clothing. I went down there with her. When she had removed her clothing I told her to get up on the table and let me examine her side."

"She got on the table and I got a bottle of chloroform and began massaging her side with it. Since this particular portion of her body was sensitive to pain, I suggested she take enough chloroform to deaden her senses. This she did."

"I continued massaging her side for about twenty-five minutes. At the end of this period I noticed she seemed to be passing out. After a hasty examination I decided the girl was dead. I was stunned. My entire past and future flashed before me. I realized my career was at an end."

"Suddenly I remembered there was a gun in the room. In a flash I decided to make it appear as though the girl had been murdered in a robbery. Seizing the gun from the drawer, I held the muzzle within five inches of her skin and pressed the trigger."

ALMOST FAINTED

"When the shot was fired I nearly fainted from the sudden noise. I can't explain why I did it other than the fact I was terrorstricken to discover that Rheta had died from the chloroform."

"When I recovered my senses I realized something would have to be done. I placed the gun near Rheta's head and ran and got a blanket from another room in the basement, using it to wrap the body."

"After I had wrapped the body up, I started to run upstairs. Suddenly my mind cleared and I thought I could make the whole thing look like a robbery. I went back upstairs and got my coat and hat and left the house, going over to Madison Street, I walked up and down for a long time; it seemed like hours."

Capt. Steg asked her who was in the house at the time of the killing, and she replied:

"No one. The house was empty except for Rheta and me."

The new Minister of Lands also intimated he would evolve a land settlement plan to assist men on the land near the lower mainland.

"What's the use of sending men to Terrace and other northern points, where prices are higher and there is no market, when they can be settled closer at home?" he said.

POLICE WORK
 Replying to the recent reference by O. G. McGeer, K.C., M.P.P.-elect, to the improbability of crime conditions in Vancouver and New Westminster being investigated, the Minister of Lands said that as far as Mayor Taylor was concerned the mayor could take care of himself, but the Vancouver police force was handicapped by not being able to reply to criticism.

"The police force should be complimented for what is doing to keep down crime," he declared.

"As far as Judge Harper and Magistrate W. M. McKay are concerned, no better men ever sat on any police commission."

Mr. McGeer said I would not stand for any police investigation in New Westminster. Well, I have been elected twenty-six different times for office in New Westminster, have served fourteen years as mayor and was born there, and I have never been defeated for any office for which I ran and I hereby give Mr. Sloan permission to investigate any one of the fourteen years of my term as mayor and if he can find one dishonest act on my part I will resign from the cabinet.

The minister declared the only thing he had done to obtain a position in the cabinet was to answer a telephone call from Mr. Pattullo to say he would accept a place in the cabinet if Mr. Pattullo thought he was capable of filling one. "My election committee," he said, "wanted to campaign for a cabinet place for me, but I said 'no.' The president of the Conservative Association said he was writing the Premier suggesting me and I told him it was all right with me."

Mr. Gray said he had had previous offers to enter the cabinet, once under Premier MacLean, and last year in the proposed United government. He declared that following his election to the cabinet he had received a congratulatory wire from Mr. McGeer.

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, was announced by Chairman W. Sergent to give the principal speech of the evening. Mr. Hart reviewed finances of the province at length, giving many of the facts he gave in his address in Victoria Monday evening, when

INSURANCE ON FRENCH GOLD

London, Nov. 24.—Brokers for Lloyd's are effecting insurance against French gold, at a standard, it became known to-day, charging thirty guineas per 100 guineas, or 30 per cent.

"We want to encourage capital to come here by saying it won't have to pay for services given in the past; only those given in the future," he declared.

Hon. A. Wells Gray outlined his programme on several matters, notably unemployment, which he declared, was to give men work for the money they were paid and to cut out the dole system. He has been following the programme in the cabinet since February 21 last year, he said, and the results had been good, although the scale of wages was admittedly too low.

"Criticism was voiced of the principle of handing municipalities over to commissioners' administration. As future administrator of the government's new department for dealing with municipalities, his declaration that municipalities can govern themselves more efficiently than can commissioners is considered significant."

Describing public works that could be carried out under the Liberal policy of putting men to work and abolishing relief, the minister intimated laying the roadbed of the P.O.E. from Blaine, widening Kingway. The P.O.E. right-of-way from West Vancouver to Squamish could be used as a road until rails are laid, he said.

The new Minister of Lands also intimated he would evolve a land settlement plan to assist men on the land near the lower mainland.

"What's the use of sending men to Terrace and other northern points, where prices are higher and there is no market, when they can be settled closer at home?" he said.

Exaggerations Seen In Lumber Statement

the claim that Canada would find it hard to take the place of Russian producers because of limited shipping facilities.

 Vancouver, Nov. 24.—British Columbia lumbermen conferred here yesterday on the published charges of British Timber Distributors Limited against Canadian lumber "propaganda," but decided not to issue a detailed statement of their case.

"Our case is in the hands of Prime Minister Bennett, and there is nothing more to say at this time," said T. H. Wilkinson, secretary of the B.C. Lumber and Shingle Manufacturers' Association.

H. R. Macmillan, prominent B.C. lumber exporter, said the fall clause in the British-Soviet lumber contract was unfair and that Canadians, operating in the traditional British system of individual trading, could not hope to compete with the Russians. If the clause was retained, "Canadian lumber prices would be forced to drop to a level not quoted within a year," said Mr. Macmillan. "The Soviet, through state control, has an unfair advantage."

Mr. Sloan pointed to the many problems in his department awaiting study and which are being held up until the election is decided. Among these he referred to the Succession Duties Act, unemployment insurance, Workmen's Compensation Act, section 23 of which he proposes amending; Mortgage Foreclosure Act, and legal work connected with construction of an economic council.

In closing he asked support for his running mate in the election in Vancouver Centre, Gordon Wamer, on whom he said, would fall much of the direct work in the riding, as he would devote the major portion of his time to his department.

B.C.'S ONLY HOPE
 Vancouver Centre should support Mr. Sloan and myself," said Mr. Wamer, "as the Pattullo plan is the only hope for British Columbia in its present dilemma. If both Victoria and Vancouver should refuse to endorse that plan it would weaken the Premier's policy of seeking federal aid."

The cry that more opposition at Victoria was needed, he continued, was robbed of its force by the adoption by the Liberals of the policy of allowing Liberal members to disagree with Liberal policy without introducing a vote of want of confidence.

W. C. MORESBY

Conservative Candidate Predicts Reconstruction of Conservative Party

"A federal election is approaching and we are facing it with a very great handicap, and that handicap is the disintegration of the Conservative Party in British Columbia," stated W. C. Moresby, K.C., Conservative candidate in Victoria, who spoke before members of the Victoria Women's Conservative Club in the Campbell Building yesterday evening.

"We must fight, and go ahead with proper organization of the party," Mr. Moresby said. "There is no great hurry for a convention, but there is great necessity of building up an active organization. Great assistance in building up the party will be gained if we can obtain a foothold in the Provincial House. I will speak frankly and say I am referring to myself," he declared.

Mrs. Moresby said a number of Liberals had assured him of their aid and assistance in electing to a Victoria seat in the House someone who would be a starter for the Conservative Party. He said Dr. Clem Davies, himself a candidate, had, to the extent of saying the speech in which he set out his platform was a constructive one. He saw no reason why Dr. Davies should have said this.

Speaking of state health insurance and maternity benefits, Mr. Moresby said they should be on a contributory basis like the workmen's compensation.

THE BUDGET

"The most important question of all," Mr. Moresby said, "is the one of balancing the budget. When Mr. Pattullo said the late Conservative government had balanced a budget during its regime it was a case of pot calling the kettle black."

Mr. Moresby then referred to the Liberal regime of 1917-1928. During those years not one Liberal budget had been balanced, he said. The Liberal government of those years voted more for supplies than they knew would be forthcoming in the receipts, he said.

He referred to the liquor question and said that if British Columbia does not follow the lines of Quebec and allow light wines and beers to be served in restaurants this province will be in the same position as the following year in the United States.

Mr. Moresby also spoke of the unemployment situation and the question of public utilities.

NOT TO BE TRUSTED

"Since the Liberal Government has come into power, already new positions have been created. Six cabinet ministers have been named. Something has got to be done to cut down expenses and balance the budget," Mr. Moresby said. "Yet what do the people expect when they put in men like Mr. Pattullo and Mr. Hart, who sat in the House before. They are not to be trusted. You don't know what they'll do."

"I regret to say," Mr. Moresby said, "that while curtailment of expenses did take place during the Conservative regime, things were carried out under the same system, which is not good business. The late government made valiant efforts to balance the budget, but it failed to keep expenditures within the estimate."

HAS NO CHANCE

Mr. Moresby said Premier Pattullo had no chance of raising money at Ottawa with which to carry out his "work and wages" programme.

"Mr. Pattullo knows full well," Mr. Moresby stated, "that he will not get funds from Ottawa. It is true that Mackenzie King said British Columbia would not receive a cent so long as there was a Conservative government in power in the province. I do not mind saying that I will not get a cent from Ottawa, but I am inclined to believe Mr. Bennett will say the province of British Columbia will not receive a cent until it shows us it can balance its budget, or make some attempt to do so."

It would appear to me," Mr. Moresby continued, "that Mr. Pattullo will go to Ottawa, knowing that he cannot expect to receive anything, and will use the refusal as campaign propaganda during the forthcoming federal election campaign."

PARTY NOT DEAD

Following his talk, Mrs. M. J. Roberts, president of the club, in voicing the vote of thanks, assured Mr. Moresby that the Conservative Party was not dead.

"It will be a long time before we are gathered together," she said, "but I am sure that we will have a lesson. A lot of Conservatives were elected that House over there like drunken sailors. It's a surprise to me they don't now go over there and pull them out," she said. "They won't balance the budget in the next twenty-five years."

Following the more formal part of the meeting refreshments were served by a committee of the ladies, headed by Mrs. A. Lancaster, Mrs. Milroy and Mrs. F. Kilby. Two solos were pleasantly rendered by Miss Catherine Dennison, with Mrs. Dennison at the piano.

WATCHING U.S. DOLLAR'S FALL

No British Trade Move Yet Made, Chancellor Tells House of Commons

London, Nov. 24.—Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the exchequer, made it plain yesterday the British government had done nothing to date to combat the fall of the United States dollar, but that it was watching the situation closely and was prepared for action if necessary.

The assurance came in face of demands from many quarters for protection against the increased benefits accruing to United States exporters as their dollar sales on foreign exchange. Some of those demanding action assert the fall has already, in some instances, wiped out the tariff protection.

"The depreciated American dollar has not, up to the present time, seriously affected British trade," Mr. Chamberlain told the House of Commons. He declared there was every reason to suppose the policy of maintaining the independence of sterling had the approval of manufacturing and exporting interests in Great Britain, and, pressed on this point, said he had received no representations from these interests.

"I think the thing to do is to await any representations that may be made," he added, suggesting the proper forum for these was the Tariff and Advisory Board.

FUND DISCUSSED

Asked whether he was satisfied with the present position of the exchange equalization fund and how its book position compared with last year's, the Chancellor declared:

"The answer to the first question is affirmative. With regard to the second, I cannot undertake to publish such information as it would not be in the public interest."

Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, announced in the Commons that Britain would put a higher tax on French goods if France did not remove its surtax on British goods, "roughly equivalent to the amount of discrimination against British goods by France."

It was learned authoritatively that Mr. Runciman had been besieged to give assurances that steps would be taken to maintain the present export basis to countries maintaining the sterling standard, against the declining dollar.

FARM AID FOR AUSTRALIANS

Government to Provide Wheat Growers With $15,000,000

Canberra, Australia, Nov. 24.—Approximately $15,000,000 is to be turned over for the relief of Australian wheat growers in various forms, according to an announcement by Prime Minister Lyons.

Of that amount, $7,000,000 will come from government revenues, while the remaining $8,000,000 is expected to be secured by imposition of a tax on flour. This tax will approximate eighty-five shillings, or roughly $21, per ton.

Australia's satisfactory budget situation is responsible for extension to the relief of wheat growers, amplifying relief measures in effect for the last two years or so. In the budget last month the Prime Minister was able to reduce direct and indirect taxation by a total of $95,000,000.

Barnard, S.C., Nov. 24.—David Barnard, ninety-eight, who journeyed to the United States from Canada with an oxcart caravan in 1861 and who lived at eighteen presidential elections, including the one in which he cast a ballot for Abraham Lincoln, died at his home here yesterday.

His vote for the Republican Lincoln in 1861 was a "sole exception to his Democratic policy." It is believed here that Barnard came from western Canada, but just what part of that broad area is unknown.

His stand has become a meeting place for others so afflicted, and after 5 o'clock most of the mutes for many blocks around come there to chat in the manual language with flying fingers.

Second Volume of British Ex-Prime Minister's Memoirs Is Published

Associated Press

New York, Nov. 24.—The world "probably" may have changed the entire course of the Great War. Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George says in the second volume of his war memoirs, published to-day.

In February, 1916, Col. Edward M. House visited London with the suggestion President Wilson summon a conference of all the belligerents to discuss peace terms, writes the former British Prime Minister.

"In my opinion, therefore," he says, "it was undesirable to take such a risk unless we were practically assured beforehand that if Germany should prove intractable on these terms, the U.S.A. would throw in her lot with us."

"Why was the conference never summoned?"

"Was the fiasco due to Sir Edward Grey's reluctance to press the idea on our French allies, or was it attributable to the insertion by President Wilson of one fatal word in the gentlemen's agreement suggested by Col. House?"

"The document, as cabled by Col. House, definitely committed the President to war."

"The President, in his reply, inserted the word 'probably' in front of the undertaking."

PRISONER WORE TOO MUCH

Pittsburgh, Nov. 24 (Associated Press).—Warden J. H. McNeill looked at Prisoner John Hurt, had him weighed, found he scaled 335 pounds, and proudly announced him as the heaviest Allegheny County jail "guest" in the prison's history. Then came disclosures.

Examination disclosed Hurt was wearing eight pairs of socks, twelve suits of underwear, fifteen shirts, eight pairs of trousers and eleven coats. He had been arrested for vagrancy.

NORTH COVERS WIDE FIELD

Six Hundred Attend His Only Meeting: Wants Everything Aboveboard

Return of the saloons, re-establishment of the elective system for Victoria police commissioners, more freedom for Chinese gamblers and a variety of other subjects were dealt with by C. R. (Joe) North in his main meeting as an independent candidate in the election campaign at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening.

Mr. North introduced himself to the 600 people who attended as one who "loves you all," and plunged into a series of approximately forty questions ranging from provincial finance to vaudeville acts in theatres, and from the police commission subject to the Old Ladies' Home, giving opinions about some and merely information about others.

Early in his address the candidate told the crowd "I'm no angel," and later suggested that anyone could "come up and see me" at his home at 1109 Johnson Street to hear what he thought about things.

"I don't want to go over the Bay to get M.P. after my name, or to get a handle of 'honorable' because I'm honorable before I go, which some of the others aren't. Nor do I want the salary. I want to do something for the people," he declared.

THREATENED, HE SAYS

He declared he had been threatened about the meeting, but did not want any trouble. He understood Chief Heatley had said if the hall was wrecked the police department would not be responsible. He hoped the chief was present to hear him.

"I'm here," said the chief, standing up in the front row.

Joe spoke under a series of headings. "The first was finance, about which he said he would not say much, because it was hard to talk about, except that Canada was paying $1,000,000 a day in interest charges. It was time brains, intellect and common sense were used for the good of the country; riot and revolution was useless."

Next he handled liquor. "They call me the drunk. If I take a drink that's my business. But it's also the government's business and they should make it open and above board. The government is the biggest bootlegger in the country," he said.

The Lord's Day Alliance Act, which he termed 2,000 years old, was the next on the list. People should be able to have a bit of recreation on Sunday unless there were unclean spots which needed cleaning up.

Mr. North then told about a young woman he had intended to marry but she would not agree because she thought people would talk when he tried to lift her out of the gutter. The last he heard about her was when she slashed her throat with scissors. He invited everyone to come up to his house and he would show them her picture.

"I'M NO ANGEL"

"I'm not sparing myself, because I'm no angel," he added.

He resumed his remarks about the need of bootlegging joints, soldiers' clubs and beer parlors I'd like to see bark all over, with everything above board."

His next subject was the police commission and he told how his wife had acted as proxy for him until the system was changed, and how she had suffered results when trying to do good.

"Any time you want to see me you can come up to my house. My life is laying on the floor for all to see, with my heart and soul," he added.

He did not think much of the work and wages plan of the Liberals, because the money must be borrowed for the wages.

After he had finished talking about untidy, vacant lots in the city, a collection was taken up for the Sunshine Inn, while the Boy's Band played selections.

When Joe resumed he told a story about two women talking after the November 2 election about six kittens.

The conversation was as follows:

Mrs. Smith—Those are nice kittens.

Mrs. Smith—But it's the only one with its eyes open.

"So you see I'm an Independent," he remarked.

The speaker next reviewed the various candidates running in opposition to him, summing each one up with a few choice remarks. He was in the middle of this discourse when he switched off to the Protestant Orphanage "without an orphan in it," and said this institution had to pay taxes to the city on a rock pile. He also said he wondered how much whitewash had been used for the inquiry recently into a home for invalided people in the city.

Joe told also about his work for the Old Ladies' Home, and how he had been excluded from it because he had talked too much about a case there he did not think was right.

He praised the administration of the old ladies' home, but explained that his idea was that an elderly couple should not be separated from each other in old age, but put in a cottage together and given an allowance.

He resumed his remarks about the candidates at this point, taking in his stride the former Attorney-General, R. H. Pooley, and Mayor Leeming as well.

His wife and Andrew McGavin had been accused of interfering with justice while on the police commission, he said, but charged the same thing to the former Attorney-General in connection with persons who had been sentenced and their terms commuted.

He criticized payments by the late government to the Agent-General in London, and the Liquor Board Commissioner upon their retirement.

Back to the police commission he went next, and recalled the details of an interview with the Chief of Police at his house, in which he had told the chief he would take the uniform off his back if he was a commissioner.

"I was offered $1,000 a month, but did not take it," he commented.

"In Victoria you have a wonderful police department but who made it for you?" he asked.

"The chief," said a voice from the back.

"No, it was your humble servant, Joe North," said Mr. North.

He dealt with the banks and said they borrowed money from the people at 4 per cent and loaned it back at 16 per cent. He also spoke about the B.C. Electric Railway Company's stock and employees' wages.

VICTORIA'S GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

When the electors of Victoria go to the polls next Monday it ought to be taken for granted that they will mark their ballots to insure the return of four supporters of the Pattullo government. The local candidates are led by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, of whom The Vancouver Province said the other day:

"Mr. Hart, a leading figure in an earlier administration, has undoubtedly been taken into the cabinet in the hope that his experience and talents will help solve the difficult problems of finance and that his reputation will add to the prestige of the government. Outside Mr. Pattullo himself, he is the only tried administrator in the new government."

As already explained, Mr. Pattullo expects to leave for Ottawa as soon as conveniently possible to take up with Premier Bennett important matters concerning the economic rehabilitation of this province. He asks Victoria, therefore, to give him still further support—just as Vancouver intends to do—in order that his case at Ottawa will have the solid backing of the capital city of British Columbia. We can not conceive of the electors of this community making a decision next Monday which would be in direct conflict with the verdict rendered by the people of the rest of the province on November 2. Surely if any city should be represented in the Legislature by a cabinet Minister, that city naturally is the capital city.

Before going to the polls every voter should study what the new government stands for and what it proposes to do to assist the province out of the mess in which it finds itself. Do the people of Victoria, for example, want such humanitarian reforms as state health insurance? Do they want an economic council to give the government impartial and competent advice on all matters of urgency, especially those to do with unemployment? Do they want a highway commission which would make for continuity of road policy as opposed to the old and costly system which saw changes with every change of Minister of Public Works? Do they want a new deal in civic matters which the Pattullo government is pledged to bring about in practical collaboration with the municipalities—a new arrangement which will put the municipalities in a much sounder financial position than they are now? And what can an opposition do about these things?

In connection with the matter of relations between the province and the municipalities, and particularly with Victoria, it will be remembered that Mayor Leeming told the local Real Estate Board the other day that the population in the city proper is decreasing because of the heavy burden of taxation which it is necessary to impose to meet its obligations. In the conferences between the municipalities and the government the Minister of Finance will have to play an important part. Victoria has the opportunity next Monday to confirm in office a Minister of Finance who is as familiar with local civic affairs as our municipal officers themselves. The electors surely will look after their own interests on Monday and see to it that Mr. Hart and his three running mates are elected.

To quote The Vancouver Province again in its allusion last week to the deferred elections: "Quite frankly we agree that under all the circumstances of the new government, the best thing that could happen next Monday week would be the election of two ministers." This refers to Mr. Hart in Victoria and Mr. Gordon Sloan in Vancouver Centre. Vancouver, of course, will not turn down a cabinet Minister. We do not think Victoria will.

TAKING A HOLIDAY

Until about the middle of January the Disarmament Conference will take a holiday. In the interim there are to be "diplomatic negotiations" with the chief object of bringing Germany back into the deliberations.

It is reported that the first of these negotiations will be directed toward rebuilding a Franco-British joint policy, to be extended afterward to Italy and eventually Germany. Another formula will seek to have Premier Mussolini as a mediator between Britain and France on the one hand and Germany on the other.

In the long months which have elapsed since the Disarmament Conference first convened the mind of the average individual has been clouded by technicalities in which he is not the least interested. Hours of discussion have been spent to decide what kind of implement should be used for killing, whether a tank should be this or that size, or whether destruction should or should not be rained from the air. The naval, military, and air experts have had a grand and glorious time.

Perhaps between now and the middle of January the delegates will consider discussing disarmament instead of armament. There is just this slender hope that something practical will emerge eventually.

STICK TO IT, MR. BENNETT

According to Mr. H. J. Mackin, chairman of the British Columbia lumber delegation which visited the United Kingdom last year, this province would be able to supply the British market in 1934 with 350,000 standards of timber—approximately 700,000,000 feet—if the business were offered. This would mean the sale of considerably more than double the present increased volume and it would displace about half the amount mentioned in the contract which Timber Distributors Limited of Great Britain and Russian shippers are apparently about to sign. This contract calls for the delivery by Russia of 800,000,000 feet in round figures next year. Canada is anxious to get half of this business if possible; but Timber Distributors Limited, in its circular sent to every member of the British House of Commons, says "the Canadian demand for the exclusion of Russian timber, besides being unwarranted, would disorganize the trade in this country and involve it in an enormous extra expenditure and render traders liable to serious losses from which only Scandinavia would benefit."

It will be recalled that as soon as Premier Bennett heard there was a possibility of Russia getting her usual order for lumber from Great Britain to meet the latter's 1934 requirements he took the stand that there was such an order to be placed, it would be in violation of the spirit and letter of Article 21 of the Canada-United Kingdom trade treaty, entered into at the Ottawa conference last year. This clause was designed to protect the preferences it granted against frustration in whole or in part "by reason of the creation or maintenance directly or indirectly of prices . . . through state action on the part of any foreign country." It is aimed to defeat any advantage which might accrue to a foreign country through "dumping."

Timber Distributors Limited reply to Canada's right to have this Article applied is that Russia has not dumped any lumber into the United Kingdom since 1930. This organization, by the way, is composed of about 200 firms upon whose annual requirements for the class of lumber which Russia supplies is based the yearly contract; the same applies to other northern European countries.

There still exists, of course, a sharp division of opinion as to whether Russia produces her lumber under conditions that give her an advantage which Article 21 was designed to offset. Mr. Bennett insists that he has grave suspicions that such is the case, and that is why he is demanding a fair observance of this provision. In this controversy, which shows no sign of abatement, the lumber organizations of British Columbia are taking an active part. The people of the province naturally will say more power to their efforts.

It is to be hoped Mr. Bennett will be successful in influencing interests in Great Britain at least to split the Russian order for 1934 and give half of it to Canada. What it would mean to British Columbia if our producers could be assured of a contract for 700,000,000 feet board measurement next year can be easily summed up. And apart altogether from the tremendous impetus it would give to one of our major industries, it would benefit every business and citizen either directly or indirectly.

Take the shipping industry alone. The average cargo for a lumber carrier is 4,000,000 feet. In other words, 175 vessels loaded to capacity would have to leave British Columbia ports next year, or one ship every other day. It does not require the knowledge of a port authority to gauge the revenue which would flow into communities such as Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster and Vancouver Island centres as a result. Well may we hope, then, that the Canadian point of view will prevail in Britain in this matter.

CANADIAN BACON IN BRITAIN

It is satisfactory to note that Canadian farmers are taking advantage of the opportunity which they are now offered to supply the British market with more bacon than they have been doing for some time. The Dominion has risen during the past year from sixth to fourth place as a supplier of bacon to the United Kingdom, which took 328,778 cwt. during the nine months ending September, compared with 158,692 cwt. for the corresponding period of last year.

In spite of the efforts that are being made by the British government to improve the pig industry in Britain, there is still plenty of room for a further increase of Canadian imports. Canadian farmers, however, must realize that they are up against formidable competitors, especially in Denmark. The market can be captured and trade retained only by sending over regular supplies and maintaining the high quality which appeals to the British consumer.

It will be to the benefit of Canadian shippers to take advantage of the information and advice placed at their disposal by the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Dominion and provincial Departments of Agriculture. The same remark applies to other Canadian food products, the arrivals of which in the British market have also shown a gratifying increase of late.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TARIFFS AND WHEAT
The Winnipeg Free Press

We say to the farmers of the west and to all whose business interests are dependent upon the prosperity of the farmers—which means practically everybody—in western Canada—that unless we reverse our fiscal policy forthwith and, so far as we can, give the industrialists of Great Britain an argument against the closing of the British ports to foodstuffs, it will be a matter of only a few years until we shall have lost the British market for exports of agricultural produce. This is no academic matter, but a question of vital concern to every farmer and to every business house in western Canada.

PROBLEM IN ETIQUETTE
The New Yorker

Most delicate and special are the etiquette problems arising in these days of recovery and remorse. Take the question propounded by a reader of The World-Telegram, who wrote: "Now that some of our most prominent citizens are standing trial in the criminal courts and having the federal government investigate their stock transactions, what rules can you prescribe for one's dealings with members of the man's family?" The Telegram's etiquette expert jumped right into this problem and landed on both feet. "Intimate friends," he wrote, "should, of course, rally around as they would in the case of any family misfortune. Acquaintances would do well to avoid all references to the criminal subject. If the man actually goes to jail, flowers and a note of sympathy might be sent to his wife."

That's handy to know; but what would be the matter with also sending a small bunch of not-too-expensive forget-me-nots to a few of the people who bought the phony stock?

POOR HENRY

A MAN REALLY has very little chance of a square deal from history. Usually the wrong and unimportant things about him are remembered and especially since the movies got going, the important things forgotten. The Eighth Henry of England is a perfect example. You will shortly see on the screen what the fictioneers and the movies have done to him. Do they show you that Henry was one of the first good men in British history? Do they show you that he was the beginning of the modern state of England? That he broke Rome's domination over the British Isles and gave the country forever to its own inhabitants? That he began the end of feudalism and laid the foundation for that Renaissance of his amazing daughter, Elizabeth, which was the Golden Age of our race? No, they do not.

Poor old Henry is not remembered for his greatness, but his weakness. Not his statecraft but his appetites are held up before the gaze of posterity. Hardly one person in ten who sees him in books or on the screen these days knows anything about his policies, but everybody knows about his wives. Policies are always dull, but not wives—at least, not the kind Henry picked. So Henry goes down to posterity and is ever remembered not for his public successes but for his private failings, not for putting England on the map but for putting off his women's heads.

Well, probably he was a swine. Many a great statesman is. But if you are going in for greatness, if you are thinking of running for the City Council, you'd better be careful. They may remember the wrong things about you, too.

ELECTOR

I WERE in politics which, for the sake of the country and my own, heaven forbid—if I were in politics, sometimes I should despair. Sometimes I should even sink to doubting the complete wisdom of the electorate. Sometimes, in my darker moments, I should begin to wonder whether the electors really knew what it was all about. On the whole, I should be a very poor politician.

This uncalculated piece of enlightenment is prompted by what a taxi driver just told me. To be sure, he was a Vancouver taxi driver, and no doubt far inferior in his mental processes to the taxi drivers of Victoria. Still, he was an elector. He voted the other day in Vancouver. He will vote again and I think he was quite an intelligent fellow. Driving me through the fog of Vancouver, he said:

"We just had an election out here in B.C."

"Oh," I said, pretending that I came from Toronto. "Who won?"

"Well, Gerry McGeer, he got in, and a fellow named Weir. And the other Liberals. The Liberals got in. A guy named Patullo, he's the head one of 'em. They look like they started off pretty good, too. They found out we're busted. That's a laugh. A fellow named Hart, he found it out right on the first day—he sure is slick with figures. Well, sir, he finds out that the other crowd that was in before was plain high wide and handsome with our dough. They found, by gosh, that $155,000,000 that was intended for relief had been lost—gone somewhere else. Gosh, know what for. Or maybe it was $155,000—I ain't sure which, but it sure was fierce."

"So Hart, he says he's going to refund our debts. I just don't know rightly what that means, but it sounds like a great idea. He's going to just pay less interest on 'em, that's all. Now don't you sound reasonable to you, brother?"

What I want to know is why didn't we do it long ago? There's nothing to it. All you do is pay less interest. Then you cut down taxes. What the country needs most is to cut out this dam' gas tax. That's what's ruining everybody. How's a poor man to live when he's got to pay seven cents a gallon on all the gas for his car? It's gettin' so a poor man can't live at all. Patullo and his bunch, they'll cut out all these taxes and cut the price of liquor, too. It's easy—they just cut down their interest rates."

"But what I want to know is, why didn't we do it before? And what happened to that $155,000,000? And, while the sun was west playing on his head, there were there the was ghost of the moon."

There was no little breeze it scarcely stirred. There was no breath of flower, no song of bird. To break the strange enchantment of that far, far below the tawny river lay asleep, like all the land, that summer day.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALBINE MICHAELIS

UPLAND PICTURE

That summer day the air was amber wine,
Each rocky hill stood drenched in ardent heat;
I stumbled, saw a drowsy snake untwine
And, mottled and sinister, past my feet.
Half heard and half surprised, an elfin sound
Of sheep bells tinkled in the afternoon
And, while the sun west played blinding on his head,
From above there peered the was ghost of the moon.

There was no little breeze

It scarcely stirred
There was no breath of flower, no song of bird
To break the strange enchantment of that far,
Far below the tawny river lay asleep,
Like all the land, that summer day.

(From The Times Files)

Hon. James Dunsen's yacht Dolaura is expected to leave tomorrow morning for the north on a hunting trip. The party will consist of Hon. James Dunsen, Major Audain, W. P. Burton, Sir Maurice Bromley, R. K. The two gentlemen mentioned last have already gone to Campbell River to try their luck with the big fish. They will be picked up by the Dolaura and the party will then go farther north after ducks and geese.

E. B. Paul, city superintendent of schools, is back from Revelstoke, where he attended the convention of the British Columbia Association of School Trustees as a delegate from the Victoria board.

For several weeks petitions have been open for signatures praying for the closing of all places of business in the city on Sundays. The petitions have been placed in the vestibules of the churches of the city for signature by the electors.

The management of the Elite bowling alleys, Fort Street, announces the forming of commercial and house bowling leagues to take place in the city in which there will be six teams in each.

Steamer Venture, of the Bosworth line, has just arrived from northern British Columbia ports bringing 9,000 cases of salmon from the Skeena and Neas. She also brought in several passengers including the Rice party.

The final arrangements are being made for the formal opening by Mrs. Dunsen of the Anti-Tuberculosis Union at the A.O.U.W. hall on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Other People's Views

REPLY TO MR. GIBBONS

To the Editor:—The letter in your issue of November 20, signed by Rodrick Gibbons, is plainly discernible as political propaganda. When he attempts to create a false impression by using "Fast President of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs' Union," the existing membership of the union, all of whom were members when Mr. Gibbons was president, but unlike Mr. Gibbons, are still in, feel called upon to protest his action in addressing the teamsters and chauffeurs of the city to a manner calculated to convey the impression that he is still with us, or that his views are our views.

The members of our union are open to argument amongst each other at any time over different political opinions, so, naturally, our union could not possibly go on record as favoring any political party.

Mr. Gibbons only paid dues into our union for two months and has not carried a card for over five years, although he has held several driving positions which called for a card. Since he disowned us when it was a matter of paying dues, why the "past president" attitude on the day of an election? The fact of his being so strongly Conservative when we knew him, coupled with his Liberal declaration now, suggests to me the famous "coat of many colors."

Regarding the claim of Mr. Gibbons that he, along with Mr. Pattullo and Mr. Corbett, were responsible for the nearly $1 drivers' license being included free with the commercial chauffeur's license, it would seem natural to ask him why he did not mention the matter to the organization of which he was past president. Our union was given to understand by Attorney-General Pooley that he thought our protest re this matter was quite false. A similar reply was received by Mr. Maris Hale, who sent in a protest along similar lines representing the views of a considerable number of taxi-drivers not affiliated with our union. In short, while our union was co-operating with other independent for the welfare of labor, Mr. Gibbons was himself trying to all up with the leader of the opposition, and to him goes all the credit. Oh yes!

Re Mr. Gibbons' statement about the wages paid to the candidates of the C.C.F. party by "Boss Johnson," I have always been known to favor Mr. Johnson for his attitude towards payment of wages; but may I remind Mr. Gibbons that when he was a member of our union for a short time, years ago, 80 per cent of Mr. Johnson's drivers refused to join our organization, though they were left absolutely free by their employer to do as they wished. The attitude of those drivers was "We are all right, never mind the rest!"

Boss Johnson is O.K. as an employer, but why use him as the only example, when we all know of different taxi and transfer firms who have always been Liberals (and some of them prominent) who pay wages down amongst the very lowest in our city.

I would ask the drivers in the different occupations to use their own God-given wisdom and not let us see fit not following the advice of a man who is evidently willing to get on with the side of the C.C.F. party, most profitable to himself. F. G. EATON, President.

MINISTER GETS RELIEF PLEAS

Vancouver Motion Calls For Complete Investigation of Funds

Hampered by its financial condition, the province is unable to do what it would like in regard to relief, Hon. G. Pearson, Minister of Mines and Labor, commented yesterday as the first of several scheduled delegations saw him on relief matters.

Rulings on a number of border line relief cases were asked from Mr. Pearson by a New Westminster delegation, consisting of Alderman K. K. Reid, acting mayor, and Thomas Furness, city superintendent, who is also in charge of relief in the city.

Mr. Pearson indicated his intentions with regard to the type of cases under consideration.

Members of the cabinet were unprepared yesterday to comment on the proposal of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council for an investigation of the Totmie Government's relief policy. A decision will probably be reserved until the labor delegation arrives with resolution.

Dispatches from Vancouver Wednesday stated the resolution called for an investigation of the whole of the unemployment relief fund as administered by the last government.

RAYWARD

Sayward, Nov. 24.—A regular meeting of Sayward Community Club took place at the hall Saturday evening. Vice-president Mrs. F. J. Harris occupied the chair. The report of the activities of the club showed a regular and continuous round of entertainment and dances.

Arrangements for the New Year's Eve dance were left to the directors of the club.

Following the meeting, a dance was held.

Rev. R. W. Ashford of the United Church, minister of the church, held service in the Community Hall Sunday afternoon and, despite rain, there was a good attendance.

D. Davies returned home from a visit to Vancouver Friday by Se. Venture. By this boat also arrived F. J. Harris from Courtenay.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Browning went out on the Saturday boat for Vancouver.

Young People's Church Societies

Chris Church Cathedral A.Y.P.A. met on Wednesday in the Memorial Hall. After the business was transacted an impromptu debate was held on "Resolved that the A.Y.P.A. is functioning properly." The affirmative was upheld by John Medley and Chris Howland, and the negative by Jack Aylwin and Gil Briscoe. The subject was then thrown open to discussion by the rest of the members. This proved very entertaining and several remarks are expected to prove of interest to the branch.

The members were urged to co-operate in making their A.Y.P.A. dance, in the K. of C. Hall, Government Street, on Friday evening, from 9 to 1, a big success. Refreshments are to be served and a good orchestra will be in attendance.

The A.Y.P.A. is urged to support the sale of the monthly magazine, and a motion was passed to the effect that two yearly subscriptions be subscribed to for the benefit of the A.Y.P.A. as a whole. Next week Deaconess Robinson will show lantern slides of Vancouver Island.

The weekly meeting of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. was held in the parish hall on Wednesday evening. There was a good attendance of members and all enjoyed the "Mock Parliament" conducted by Neil Fraser, who appointed the following cabinet: Premier, Ray Hadfield; minister of finance, Jim Worwick; provincial secretary, Thelma Burnie; minister of public works, Miss Peggy White; attorney-general, Tom Tams. Neil Fraser was the leader of the opposition. Each party had very strong support from its members, which caused lively discussions on all subjects. Walter Phillips acted as speaker, while Miss Olive was the clerk of the house.

Rev. Alan Gardiner asked all present to give their wholehearted support to dance to be held in the torpedo room, Naval Barracks, on December 1, in aid of St. Paul's Anglican Church and Queen of Peace Catholic Church.

NANAIMO

Nanaimo, Nov. 24.—The weekly meeting of the Nanaimo Devine Club was held in the St. Andrew's United Church Tuesday night under the direction of J. Bertram. An address was given by the Rev. J. H. Wright of the Haliburton Street Church on "Gold."

LOG CABIN ON DISPLAY HERE

"Caribou Bill" Anger and Companions at Hudson's Bay Store

"Caribou Bill" Anger, former newspaperman of Winnipeg and The Pas, Manitoba, who is in Victoria with his companions, Roger Penton and Horace Burgoyne, with their "Log Cabin on Wheels," is showing a large collection of pictures and minerals from Canada's northern hinterland at the Hudson's Bay Company's store on Douglas Street to-day and to-morrow.

The three men left Winnipeg with their "Log Cabin" on July 5, and have traveled over 6,000 miles at the present time. They have given lectures in many schools and halls along the route and have displayed their photographs and minerals in the largest departmental stores in Western Canada.

"Caribou Bill" says the only excitement on the trip was when their "Log Cabin" skidded into a five-foot ditch in a rainstorm at Morse, Saskatchewan, and laid on its side all night. They were pulled out the next morning by a tractor. Their first puncture occurred in the shadows of the Rockies, where they also burned out a bearing and nearly lost a wheel. After reaching the summit, 5,400 feet, at Roseland, where there was six inches of snow, on descending the brake bands caught fire, with the result that Roger Penton ran down the mountain to a creek for water, while Horace Burgoyne smothered the flames with a coat, burning out the sleeves. Anger had the log cabin almost unloaded when the flames were extinguished.

The mechanic, Penton, says he would not like to drive the log cabin around the hairpin turns after dark and found it very hard backing on to the various ferries where he only had a few inches on either side.

"After leaving Hope the party was traveling at a good speed down a steep incline, and about a make a sharp turn, when a man rushed out in front with his hand up, shouting 'stop!'" "Here we found a stalled car with a trailer attached stretched right across the trail. There was about two feet to pass on the right and a drop of a few hundred feet over the cliff," said Mr. Penton. "I preferred to hit their bumper dead on."

In connection with the Bible and present-day life.

The Onwego Young Men's Club met recently at the home of George Rollos, Stewart Avenue, to hear a talk on "The Value of Public Speaking," by A. R. C. Hebdon, and a descriptive address by Stanley Dakin on the subject of the "Berguia Method of Converting Coal to Gasoline."

Nanaimo Rugby Club was placed third in the first round of the Vancouver Rugby Union, second division. Nanaimo will go to Vancouver on Saturday to play the R.C.M.P. in the first game of the second round. Dawkin, who had his nose broken last week against Ex-technical, will be out of the game for a few weeks.

Magistrate Beaver-Potts fined Nelson Louie, Chemainus, $500 or one month for pitamping at Yellow Point, near Nanaimo. Louie went to jail yesterday afternoon.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Owing to the fact that five candidates have been nominated for the Victoria riding in the Older Boys' Parliament, an election will be necessary to decide who shall fill the four seats allotted to the city. Vivian Shoemaker, district returning officer, announced yesterday evening.

The polling date is set for Saturday, December 2, and votes will be recorded at the Y.M.C.A. The candidates are as follows: Arthur Wright, Victoria West; United Church; Arthur Puller, Metropolitan; Robert Watt, Centennial; Walter Matthews, First United; and Francis Morton, Oak Bay United.

This year's session of the parliament, which deals with matters of importance to church boys' groups and gives practical training in leadership, is fixed for December 27 to 30. Robert McMaster has been named premier.

Although filled with alarming inconsistencies, the report of the treasurer of the Prospect-View-by-the-Sea Country Club, presented at a mock meeting of the board at the Y-Speakers' Club Wednesday evening was eventually passed, through the skill of the treasurer, whose part was taken by N. L. Dunn.

At Wednesday evening's meeting, Dr. T. W. A. was appointed president of the Speakers' Club.

The Junior Girls' Swimming Club held a social Wednesday evening in the Y.M.C.A. building, after their usual swimming period. Thirty-three members attended, and had a fine time. At the end of the meeting the club's officers were appointed, as follows: Hon. president, H. B. Newton; president, Helen Unsworth; secretary, Audrey Adam; and captain, Georgie Adam.

S.P.C.A. HEAR OF STRAY CATS

Problem Is Increasing Inspector Says at Monthly Meeting; Seek Plan

The regular monthly meeting of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held on Tuesday.

The inspector again took up the question of the society's responsibility in regard to the stray cat problem. Homeless and vagrant cats, often diseased and unprovoked, are numerous in all districts. Apparently no attempt is being made by owners of these animals to keep the ever increasing number in check which, in consequence, become a menace. A great part of the inspector's time is taken up in destroying cats which are unwanted. Efforts are being made to devise some plan of controlling cats, the only domestic animal uncontrolled by law, and hopes are entertained that some solution may be reached.

During the last month forty-seven cases were attended and 1,039 animals and birds inspected.

Cases of cruelty or neglect should be reported to the inspector, G. A. Allen, phone Empire 8351, or to A. R. Sherwood, secretary-treasurer, phone Empire 7555.

cent in the last six months. They also submitted arguments in respect to a comparison between the pay of firemen here and elsewhere. They asked for an increase amounting to 10 per cent of the pay scale prior to the reductions.

After hearing the representations, members of the committee expressed sympathy with the arguments of the delegation and requested that the case be set in writing, after which the wardens will again consider the matter and determine if a recommendation shall be sent to the City Council.

UNION LIBRARY DISTRICT SOUGHT

A union library district for Fraser Valley municipalities was under consideration at a meeting of the Public Library Commission held at the Parliament Buildings Wednesday. Petitions were received from twenty-four centres in the valley requesting the establishment of such a district and the commission will endeavor to have brought down an order-in-council to that effect with a plebiscite taken at the forthcoming municipal elections in the district affected by the question of public support.

Through arrangement with the Carnegie Corporation of New York the various centres have been provided with library facilities. This arrangement terminates next summer and the union library plan is being sponsored to succeed it.

The Kootenay and Okanagan districts requested the commission to forward information on a similar plan and the decision was reached to conduct complete preliminary investigation into the feasibility of establishing library districts in the interior of the province.

The Old Way—Entire nib and holder submerged in ink—requires cleaning.

Fills the Pen by Submerging the Pen Point Only!

To fill this new, improved Waterman's you just dip the pen point in the ink deep enough to cover the vent hole. No need to submerge the bottom of the holder as with the ordinary fountain pen. "Tip-Fill" filling is quicker, easier, cleaner—it brings another new convenience to users of Waterman's.

You Have a Choice of Seven Different Pen Points

You'll find a pen nib exactly suited to your style of writing among the seven types of Waterman's No. 7 displayed on the Waterman's Point Selection Tray. To simplify selection each different point is identified by a distinctive color symbol.

Have your Waterman's dealer show you this Improved No. 7 with the patented "Tip-Fill" Feed.

The "Tip-Fill" Way—Holder never touches ink. Nib submerges only to vent hole—end of holder absolutely dry.

Waterman's famous No. 7 with "Tip-Fill" Feed and ink rubber sac (the only practical ink reservoir).

EX-PRINCE AND MORGANATIC WIFE

Love and domestic happiness still mean more to Lennett Bernadotte than a kingdom. Here you see the grandson of King Gustaf of Sweden with his commoner wife, for whom he renounced his royal title and his rights to the Swedish throne, in a new picture of the couple just received here.

authorities command. It is vitally essential that she know the make-up of an ordinary diet from infancy through adolescence. There is no excuse for not knowing. There is a wealth of material available in newspapers with such columns as this one, from magazines, government sources, and from universities. The essential thing is for mothers to have the desire to gather their own information and the willingness to ask for help.

To-morrow: "Parents Must Be Responsible for Children's Safety."

CORSETS AND CREEDS ALLIED

Social Upheaval Causes Men to Discard Religion and Women Corsets

"After a war, a revolution or any social upheaval a spirit of unrest takes hold of the world. Men discard their religion and women their underwear-creeds and corsets go hand in hand. We are just emerging from the civilisation left by the Great War, that is why women's dresses are becoming romantic in design."

A CENTURY OF DRESS

This new point of view was expressed by Dr. C. Willett Cunningham, who makes a hobby of collecting women's dresses. He was lecturing at Claridge's Hotel, London, England, recently in aid of the Royal Northwestern Hospital and illustrated his talk with 150 most interesting dresses.

They were original dresses dating between 1800 and 1900—a period which experienced great prosperity, war, post-war disillusionment and a social revolution. It was also towards the end of this epoch that women began to realize there were other careers besides marriage.

Under Dr. Cunningham's guidance, every line and every curve became a reflection of history.

SOCIETY MANNEQUINS

The dresses were worn by some of London's most beautiful society women. They made splendid mannequins. They were not content to strut up and down like peacocks, but altered their step and expression to suit every gown, fearful for the mourning dresses, coy with mingling little steps for the half-mourning frocks and radiant for the wedding gowns.

They deserved to be a success, for seventeen to eighteen inch waists mean a lot of lacing for the 1933 figure.

"WASHER IN 1824

In 1824 "washer" people did not know how to lace them properly. This was the correct way, according to a fashion journal of the time:

"When lacing the new stays, the young lady should lie face downwards on her bedroom floor and her mother should place her foot in the small of her daughter's back in order to obtain good purchase. There should be then no difficulty in making the stays meet."

AMUSING POINTS

Here are some other amusing points noticed:

Smart hats in 1825 had to be trimmed with at least 120 feet of ribbon.

In 1830 rubber balloons were used to puff out ladies' sleeves.

In 1833 a London weekly paper said that gentlemen can hardly keep themselves in the drawing rooms of London for the noise made by the buckram stiffening of the ladies' dresses.

"Crimoline" was the name given to a horsehair petticoat worn by every woman in 1840. It was later used for a style of dress.

Ribbons which hung down from the hat over the shoulders in 1870 were known as "Follow-me-lads."

In 1883 smart women wore earrings like railway engines.

WOMAN'S FIRST DUTY: BEAUTY

The Oxford woman undergraduate has always been rather unfairly classed by the men students as an "indescribable entity, devoid of looks and barren of accomplishment, who languished in the shade of her own inferiority complex."

In the current edition of The Isis, the Oxford University magazine, however, a writer says: "Almost imperceptibly a change has come. At last the

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Because flagging appetites are whetted by novel flavors, the piquant sauce makes a definite contribution to the well-balanced menu. The actual food value of a meatless relish may be very small, but it turns the plainest pot-stew dinner or cold-meat supper into a palatable and interesting meal.

A great variety of these sauces can be made easily and cheaply, so that the filling of the relish shelves, of the preserve cupboard, is not a forbidding task.

RUNNAGE PICKLE

Two quarts green tomatoes, 1 quart ripe tomatoes, 3 large heads celery, 4 large green cucumbers, 3 large onions, 3 green peppers, 3 red peppers, 1 small head of cabbage, 1 cup salt, 1 quart vinegar, 3 cups brown sugar, 1 teaspoon pepper.

Peel onions and remove seeds from peppers. Wash remaining vegetables. Chop and put into a large crock with salt sprinkled through layers. Let stand thirty minutes and drain over night. In the morning put all the ingredients in preserving kettle and bring to the boiling point. Simmer twenty minutes and pour into sterilized jars. Seal and store in a dark cool place.

CHUTNEY SAUCE

Twelve four green apples, 12 small green tomatoes, 3 green peppers, 3 medium sized Spanish onions, 1 pound seedless raisins, 6 tablespoons salt, 1/4 pound green ginger root, 3 tablespoons mustard seed, 2 1/2 cups dark brown sugar, 1 1/2 quarts vinegar.

Wash tomatoes and remove stems. Chop coarsely. Sprinkle with 3 tablespoons salt and let drain over night. Pare, core and chop apples. Peel and chop onions. Remove seeds and pith from peppers and chop. Combine sugar, raisins, salt and vinegar. Bring to the boiling point and boil five minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer until vegetables are tender and mixture is thick. It will take about an hour. Turn into sterilized glasses and seal.

If mint flavor is wanted add 1 cup chopped mint leaves to chopped mixture when combined with vinegar.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast—Cantaloupe, cereal cooked with figs, codded eggs, whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked Frankfurters, savory rice, celery hearts, apple sauce, oatmeal cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Baked haddock with oyster sauce, mashed brown potatoes, lima beans and green peppers, tomato and cucumber salad, apple crisp, milk, coffee.

undergraduate, however plain she be, is trying to make the best of herself.

"The other day, passing through the streets of Oxford, we saw here and there, to our amusement and gratification, a painted face. It was a happy sign, and, later, in a restaurant, when we saw an undergraduate positively powdering her nose, we could scarcely check our applause, for it is the duty and privilege of women to look, if not to be beautiful.

"If Nature has withheld her gifts, artifice may legitimately remedy the omission. Should a woman, flinching at an unflattering reflection as she sits before her mirror, think that she would be improved by paint and powder, she may with a clear conscience, trick herself out in them.

"Women, even undergraduates, owe it to the human race to be as decorative as possible, so it is with pleasure that we detect the influence of the beauty parlour among the women of Oxford."

COULD WOMEN CLIMB EVEREST?

Mr. Hunt Rutledge, the leader of the last Mount Everest Expedition, believes women have as much power of endurance as men.

At the annual dinner in London the other evening of the Federation of Rambling Clubs he said: "There are many women mountain climbers in England and elsewhere who, I believe, are fully capable of taking a full share in an Everest Expedition."

Mr. Rutledge hopes to lead another attempt to climb Everest next year. He will include a woman mountaineer in his party.

FOX TELLS OF THEATRE DEALS

Inform U.S. Senate Stock Inquiry Committee Banks Forced Him to Sell

Associated Press

New York, Nov. 24.—William Fox told the United States Senate bank committee yesterday he was "forced under duress" by bankers to sell control of his chain of 1,000 movie houses which he had developed from a single nickelodeon in Brooklyn.

The witness informed the investigators he conferred with William J. Donovan, then Assistant Attorney-General, in 1928 before purchasing controlling stock in Loew's Inc. He said he wished to learn if the department would object, and that the Attorney-General's office informed him later it would be "all right" for him to buy the stock.

When President Hoover was inaugurated, Fox added, the bankers alarmed him on Tuesday evening, when the Attorney-General, he said, but instead that post went to William D. Mitchell. Fox said he took his trouble to Mr. Hoover at a White House luncheon.

President Hoover, told him, Fox related, that he needed no intermediaries, and that he needed only to send word to his Attorney-General, the Department of Justice if his story was true.

Woman Shoots At Memorial Tower

Canadian Press

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Honore Cecilia Bowly-Gledhill, daughter of a British naval officer, was under a thirty-day suspended sentence to-day for having fired a pistol at the new Coit memorial tower.

Artistic controversy has raged for months about the tower on historic Telegraph Hill. It was built from a bequest left by the late Mrs. Little Hitchcock Coit. The Hill's Bohemian colony has voiced biting criticism of the tall shaft.

Mrs. Gledhill, proprietress of the Dead Fish Cafe, and wife of Ralph Gledhill, tennis player, expressed disapproval with a pistol the other night, and was arrested.

AROUND THE TOWN

Thursday, November 23.

Up-to find the towns swathed in thick white folds of mist. The trees be dripping wet and from my window do see the privet hedge all covered with faint traceries. "The spider webs acoust with fog. Everything doth look so serene with this steady drifting fog. 'Tis glad I am to turn back to the brightness of my room."

Home all morning and try to straighten my accounts. Must try this year to keep them in some order, for Samuel doth get vexed to find them muddled. In truth am myself bewildered at the way my money disappears. 'Twould seem I must be more careful.

Mistress Castlemaine did phone and beg me to meet her at Love's on View Street. She doth hear a rumour they have but recently received the sole right to sell "Autograph Fashion Dresses" in Victoria. On going in the shop we find this doth indeed be true. The gowns be on view now—and exultate styles they are—every line of each and none other like in Victoria. There be pictures, too, to show, of the great movie stars wearing the identical gowns that be on sale here.

Ginger Rogers, Lella Hyman, Joan Bennett, all great names, and they be many more. Was myself impressed with a bewitching Sunday evening gown. 'Tis made of laquer red beaded with a beautiful, shimmering finish. The sleeves be of the new lantern style and lined with rich corded silk in deep cream. On the label attached to this gown is a facsimile of Joan Bennett's own signature. 'Tis a truly amazing thing—and wonderful. Faith! it doth bring Victoria ladies the same gowns that do sell in New York and the price be the same. Remarkable!

To Wilfrid Gibson, photographer, at 743 Port Street. Did run in my mind to bring young Jane to have her likeness taken for Christmas. Methinks Paul would like this gift for Jane grows over fast and will not be long 'til she has lost her pretty little ways. Mister Gibson doth make it very easy to give such a gift, for he will finish just the number of pictures you have monied for. Did make an appointment for Jane and plan to order two good pictures. Mister Gibson will then keep the negatives, and if my sister-in-law Paul doth wish to have more finished, it will be quite easy, after the Yuletide rush be over. 'Tis a perfect gift—a photograph—and Mister Gibson doth bring this service within the reach of all.

Drive past Foster's Fur Shoppe—No, not past, for we cannot but alight to look in their windows and to talk of their fine furs. Mistress Castlemaine doth say there be no furs like Foster's. 'Tis the oldest fur shop in town and she doth say they serve the finest quality of fur coats, jaquettes and scarfs there be. Mr. Alexander doth have a wide experience in the art of fur, and then there be Foster's workmanship. These furs be backed with Foster's iron-clad guarantee. Did bring up the matter of a new fur evening cloak this morn. Samuel doth look down his nose and said but little. Faith! 'tis running in my thoughts he may be thinking on it.

There be one thing I did want to do this day. Had set my heart on presenting Mistress Thrift's Doll with a live gift this Yuletide. She be over lonely, no other children live near. 'Tis a pup or a kitten to love—'Twould do her wee heart good. So to the Pet Shop at Down Government to Period Arts Shoppe, where 'tis wonderful to see the bargains in new glassware. One table did attract me mightily. There be English glassware—'Amber Cloud' 'tis called—a deep brown, veining that softens into lighter brown and cream. Tall flower vases from 60c, and graceful ash trays from 35c. Then, of course, there be bigger pieces that might be placed in almost any corner of a room. The new within the year "Amber Cloud" Christmas tree at the British Industries Fair in London now—'Amber Cloud'—'tis a truly amazing verie much the rage in England.

Coming out of Period Arts do find the day be closing in. 'Tis amazing how the darkness falls betimes.

Home—my arms well filled with parcels—to find goodie Bess doth have a splendid meal awaiting. Faith! 'tis would I do without her. Samuel indeed! doth love goodie meals.

'Tis pleasant to sit quietly before the fireplace on these misty evenings, to have Samuel in his big armchair, smoking long on his favorite pipe. To see Jocka curled at my feet, his wee black nose a quiver, and his ears all cocked as he dreams of some doggy adventure in the depth of the flames, Faith! at such times 'tis good to be alive—and I do give thanks, accordingly.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER

MODERN MOTHER GETS HELP FROM MANY SOURCES

Undernourished babies would be a rarity if each young mother felt herself duty bound to inform herself as to what constitutes proper feeding for healthy babies. It is quite all right for affluent mothers to depend on their personal physicians, but pediatricians are far too few in number to serve the whole country, and clinics and health centres are the boon of the city mother, not the rural one.

METHODS CHANGE RAPIDLY

The mothers in small towns and country districts, in the midst of plenty, are many times indifferent about how their babies are fed. They refuse to recognize that personal experience is no foundation upon which to build a knowledge of infant feeding—changed materially within the last five years and enormously since they themselves were children. To expect the grandmothers to guide them in feeding their babies is to step back twenty or more years and ignore all the recent information science has been at such pains to gather for them.

Scientific baby feeding takes into account what food elements are necessary to insure health. It is known how much protein is needed daily to build up and repair body cells. We know how much fat is necessary for protection against infections, and to furnish warmth and fat padding for growing bones. We know how to stabilize the nervous system, and how cod liver oil aids in that process. We know how much water is needed to preserve a normal body temperature and provide the baby's constant need for fluid. We know how much carbohydrate is necessary to keep children warm and fill them with energy.

PERSONAL INCENTIVE

It isn't necessary for the young mother to become confused by all the knowledge about infant feeding that is available. She can get the best of it by following the lead of the modern mother who is getting help from many sources.

Man With a Thousand Masks

By Augustus Muir

With teeth clenched, Alan tried to think the matter out to some clear conclusion. Elizabeth—an associate of criminals! It was incredible, yet the ugly truth seemed to leap out of the darkness in letters of flame. Alan gripped himself tightly. He had been in love with her. Was he still?

Heaven only knew!

With despair at his heart he turned to retrace his steps to the village inn. But he had not gone a couple of paces when a sound behind him made him swing round.

From the deep shadow of the undergrowth a man stepped into the white moonlight, and a familiar voice called out:

"What the devil are you doing here, Gilmour?"

It was Inspector Tripp.

"Well, I'm blessed!"

It was the utmost Alan could stammer out. Though the question was repeated, he could only stare at the detective in dazed astonishment.

"I rang you up at the Marquise Hotel last night," Tripp went on. "They told me you'd left. I was glad to know you'd taken my advice."

"I meant to write to you," Alan blurted out, and then gave an uneasy laugh. "I expect you wondered where I had disappeared to."

"You haven't answered my question," said Tripp sharply.

Alan hesitated. The detective's question raised a difficult issue—the one issue on which there had never been complete frankness between them.

More than once Tripp had warned him to have as little to do with the Marquise as possible, and he had deliberately ignored the advice. More than once, too, he had found himself in the position of having to conceal the truth from her sake. But was there any use now in hiding the reason why he had come to Holmdene?

"I was hoping to see Miss Marlowe," Alan replied. "She's down here at Templeton's for the week-end."

A streak of moonlight revealed a slightly cynical smile on the detective's face.

"Well, you had a chance of speaking to her just now. Why didn't you take it?"

Alan did not answer.

"It might have been rather an awkward moment for her, eh?" continued Inspector Tripp. "Look here, Gilmour, why don't you take my advice about this girl? You're simply piling up trouble for yourself."

"Perhaps I am," said Alan doggedly. "But if you were in my shoes you'd do exactly as I am doing. If I let her in the lurch now, I'd consider myself a pretty low sort of a cad."

"But supposing she prefers to be left—as you say—in the lurch?" queried the detective. "What are you going to do about it?"

"I'll grant you that. But does she want your help?"

With an almost uncanny discernment Tripp seemed to have echoed Alan's own thoughts.

"She doesn't," he muttered in reply. "At least, she says she doesn't. But she's miserably unhappy. You can see it in her face. I wish to Heaven you'd be frank with me. He went on. "Do you know anything—well, anything, definite against her?"

Inspector Tripp shrugged his shoulders.

"I'd have thought you saw enough just now to answer that question for yourself."

"I know," nodded Alan. "She was meeting that man here in the woods. Brown's his name. I believe. But does that prove anything against her?"

"It depends on the man," said Tripp quietly. "They had fallen into step, and were walking in the direction of the village. The detective went on for a few paces in silence, then stopped.

"Tell me this, Gilmour. Have you seen that man Brown before?"

"What! behind the question Alan could not guess, and he could see no way of avoiding a direct answer.

"Yes," he admitted.

"At the Marquise's?"

"Yes."

The detective offered no comment, and it was Alan who broke the awkward silence.

"Do you know who he is?" he asked. But Tripp shrugged his shoulders.

"Let me put it this way, Gilmour. I know enough to tell you that you're better out of this. Our information at the Yard is that there is something about to happen hereabouts to-night—not very far, in fact from where we're standing now."

"Does Mrs. Priddy come into it?" Alan inquired, and he proceeded to relate how he had intercepted her signal to Mr. Brown as he passed the inn on horseback.

Inspector Tripp nodded.

"But what on earth has Elizabeth Marlowe got to do with all this? Alan burst out. "If you know, why the devil don't you tell me?"

Tripp laid a soothing hand on Alan Gilmour's arm.

"The boot can fit the other foot, my friend. Why did you not tell me of your first visit to the Marquise's? It was to deliver a letter to Miss Marlowe, wasn't it? And you promised her to hold your tongue about it. Am I not right?"

He looked into Alan's set face and, seeing the reply, went on in the same quiet tone:

"Well, I don't blame you, Gilmour. You were honest about it—you told me you were something you were keeping to yourself. Yes, I know you were protecting Elizabeth Marlowe. I can't blame you for that, either. You've got eyes in your head, I suppose, and I'm afraid it will go hard with Elizabeth Marlowe."

"Yes?" cried Alan, his pulse beating. "He's a notorious scoundrel. But he's more than that. Though we've got a good reason for not arresting him, we believe him to be a prominent member of the Lord John gang. If anything happens in this vicinity to-night, I'm afraid it will go hard with Elizabeth Marlowe."

While Alan Gilmour made his way moodily back to the village inn at Holmdene, Inspector Tripp's movements were those of a man whose plans had already been perfectly laid.

He cut across the fields in the direction of the Dean, the big Georgian house among the trees which was tenanted by Mrs. Lydia Priddy.

The Dean lay back from the main road about a quarter of a mile; and its magnificent broad avenue, planted by the Queen Victoria's Prime Ministers, was justly famous. Glancing at the luminous dial of his wrist watch, Tripp glanced at his pace a little as he crossed the wide path that sweeps up to the fringes of the pleasure grounds, and made his way to a secluded spot where a high bank of rhododendrons, in the lurch now, I'd consider myself a pretty low sort of a cad."

"But supposing she prefers to be left—as you say—in the lurch?" queried the detective. "What are you going to do about it?"

"I'll grant you that. But does she want your help?"

With an almost uncanny discernment Tripp seemed to have echoed Alan's own thoughts.

"She doesn't," he muttered in reply. "At least, she says she doesn't. But she's miserably unhappy. You can see it in her face. I wish to Heaven you'd be frank with me. He went on. "Do you know anything—well, anything, definite against her?"

Inspector Tripp shrugged his shoulders.

"I'd have thought you saw enough just now to answer that question for yourself."

"I know," nodded Alan. "She was meeting that man here in the woods. Brown's his name. I believe. But does that prove anything against her?"

Now! Ease Sore Throat Instantly!

1 Crush and dissolve 3 Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water.

2 GARGLE thoroughly — throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat.

3 Repeat gargle and do not swallow. Allow gargle to remain on membranes of the throat for prolonged effect.

Remember: Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as five or three minutes.

It requires medicine—like ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout the world are prescribing this ASPIRIN gargle in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get Aspirin Tablets for this purpose.

DEBT RAISED BY GUARANTEES

Herbert Anscomb Tells Electors He Opposes Provincial Bonding

Absolutely opposed to the issuing of provincial guarantees of any description, by which, he claimed, the province may be plunged into debt, was announced by Herbert Anscomb as part of his platform as an independent candidate in the Victoria election, during his campaign address in Stanley Hall, Victoria, last, yesterday evening, G. B. Murdie was the chairman.

"We had a suggestion from the late premier that had his party been returned to power he would have instituted a policy of bonding by way of bounty, a steel mill on Vancouver Island, Mr. Anscomb said. "And during the closing period of the late government's term, the members actually passed legislation giving a guarantee or bounty to the support of the construction of a bridge over the Fraser River at Ladner, which may involve the province, and may not, to the extent of some $140,000 a year for a long period of years."

"May I, with all the frankness that it is possible to put into it, say that I am absolutely opposed to any more provincial guarantees of any nature or kind," he continued. "Let us assume that if a market exists for a steel mill or a toll bridge or any other kind of development, then private enterprise will soon take care of its needs—and if private enterprise is not ready to do that you can rest well assured that it has no appeal to them and as such can have less, and should have less, to the government."

GUARANTEE INCREASED DEBT

Examples of the issuance of the Societies Act, Sweetwater District. Thunderbird Ski Club, under Societies Act, Grouse Mountain. United Milling & Grain Company Limited, $25,000, Vancouver. The Foundation Company of Canada Limited of Montreal and Vancouver, with paid-up capital of $50,000, and Permanent Timber Products Limited, with head office at Vancouver, and paid-up capital of $10,000 were granted extra-provincial licences.

FORESEES U.S. CATASTROPHE

Prof. Carrothers, Speaking at College, Compares States to Post-war Germany

Hope that the adventurous spirit of the century might lead the world to a time of renewed peace and prosperity, despite the collapse to which he said President Roosevelt's present policy seemed to be leading by Professor W. A. Carrothers, Ph.D., at the college yesterday evening in an address on the world economic conference, one of the series of lectures sponsored by the University Extension Association of Victoria.

Professor Carrothers compared the present two-handed policy of the United States to that of Germany in the post-war slump, and expressed fear that the results might be the same. President Roosevelt, he said, was trying to ride two horses at once, the debtor and the creditor. Outside the circle could not be done. The policy of a debtor country, a policy which would be adapted to Canada at present, was to sell more than it bought. The proper policy for the States in their position as a creditor country would be to buy more than they sold. Their present system was in direct opposition to this.

"In this way you will check to a great extent, undue development and have something tangible for unemployed work during slack periods," he pointed out. "There may be some difficulty experienced or suggested in such a programme due to inability to raise money during periods of depression—in other words the taxpayer will vote against by-laws for the money if they are put to him in full time. This can be avoided by having the by-law passed during normal periods, but the work commenced only when the time is agreed to by the Minister of Municipal Affairs."

Continuing, Mr. Anscomb advocated a policy whereby a further period of relief might be given cities and municipalities in tax sales for people's homes. "At present the time limit is three years," he said, "and in some cases under certain circumstances this time limit should be extended. We would have to see, however, that the legislation is carefully drawn up so that it is not abused and that those who do not need the relief provided take advantage of it at the expense of the remainder of the taxpayers." This, he thought, could be done if the matter was carefully handled.

AUDITORS' REPORT TO SHAREHOLDERS.

We report to the Shareholders of the Imperial Bank of Canada that we have examined the Balance Sheet as at October 31st, 1933, and compared it with the books and vouchers at Head Office and with the certified returns from the Branches. We have obtained all the information and explanations that we have required, and in our opinion the transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have been within the powers of the Bank.

In our opinion the Balance Sheet discloses the true condition of the Bank, and is as shown by the books of the Bank.

The above Balance Sheet does not include money which has been set aside by the Shareholders from time to time for the purpose of a Pension Fund.

DR. TOLMIE IS HONORED

Saanich Gives Welcome-home Banquet; Hinchliffe Tells of Bribes Refused

Ex-Premier S. F. Tolmie was cheered and lauded at a welcome-home banquet tendered him at Royal Oak by the members of the Saanich Conservative Association yesterday evening to mark his return to private life. It was an enthusiastically demonstrative gathering attended by nearly 200 persons, who paid the warmest tributes of personal affection to their ex-representative and fellow resident. At the conclusion the stood and cheered him repeatedly.

"I leave office with the feeling that I can look every man in the face and with the knowledge I have done my best for the good of the country at all times," Dr. Tolmie said. "With the aid of my colleagues at the head of the late administration, I strove for clean government, with surprising results in certain quarters."

"Saanich during my administration received its fair share of attention, and this constituency can look back over provincial records for thirty-five years without finding a parallel."

LIKE EX-PRESIDENT HOOVER

"There is no need for humbug about it. We asked the people a question, and they said 'No,' and that is all there is to it. While I am one of those politicians who did not get rich in office, let me say I am enjoying the rest. It is no the first time a Tolmie has been debated, and I may add I am in distinguished company. Ex-president Herbert Hoover appears to have led the procession."

"I have been in public life since 1917 and perhaps it is only right to be licked, after such good luck. It has been five years of heavy, but happy work, trying to do our best for British Columbia and the people as a whole.
You may be sure I told the clock to go places on the morning of November 3."

"Principles of Union Government were pressed upon me by members of the Legislature, by members of the cabinet and by an influential section of the coast press in 1932. I approached the leader of the opposition, but he refused. Had Mon. Mr. Pattullo complied the forces that are appealing to the unrest in this province to-day would not have entered the election."

Dr. Tolmie declared that from the day at Kamloops when he was pressed into the Conservative leadership, there had been persons and forces working against him. But, rehearsing events, he said he had nothing to regret. He paid a tribute to the memory of W. J.
Bower, his late opponent for the leadership, and then congratulated Norman W. Whitehead, Liberal candidate, for his victory over himself in Saanich. He also expressed his appreciation to the people of Saanich who had honored and supported him for so long.

REFUSED LARGE BRIBES

Canon Joshua Hinchliffe, who was Minister of Education under the late Premier, declared Dr. Tolmie could pay himself the highest tribute that could be said of any man.

"Dr. Tolmie can say, 'I still own Tolmie,' Canon Hinchliffe said. "He can say further, 'I am defeated, but I am not disgraced.' And he can look every man in the face and if necessary tell him to go some place."

"I am not quite sure that the people of British Columbia are ready yet for clean leadership. I know no man ever stepped out of public life in British Columbia with a cleaner record than Dr. Tolmie. I myself have been offered the way from $200,000 down, for my influence in certain matters, and some of the offers were in writing from citizens of other countries and some from respected citizens of this country. I, too, can look every man in the face and if necessary, tell him to go places."

"I congratulate Saanich in having produced a Premier who will go down in the records of history as a man who kept himself absolutely clean."

"FRIENDS' OFTEN WORST ENEMIES"

R. H. Pooley, former attorney-general, praised both Dr. Tolmie and Canon Hinchliffe.

"What has struck everybody in British Columbia is the sporting way in which my old chief has taken a licking," Mr. Pooley said. "Saanich has a sportsman and they may be justly proud of it. Simon Fraser Tolmie went in to give you clean government and he did it. His name will stand among the heroes of the province when history comes to be written."

"Twenty-two years' experience in politics has convinced me that so-called friends are the worst enemies of any man in public life."

Mr. Pooley discussed some of the incidents of the last five years and told of many who became traitors to the party when they found they could not obtain special concessions.

W. O. Wallace, president of the Saanich Conservatives, presided, and was assisted by Mrs. F. F. Osborn, Mrs. Corbett and R. Jackman in the programme. After dining, toasts and speeches there was music and dancing with the ex-premier taking full part in the fun, shaking hands with everyone and extending kindly words.

ask questions. And why should A. D.

affairs of us citizens of British Columbia, on whom the burden of carrying these selfish, inconsistent independent candidates falls. As to Mr.
Davies viewing matters from all angles, this is very true, but one must be in every corner and on every side to view does truly get into every corner and certainly on all sides, and so must be called inconsistent.

U.S. AND RUSSIAN
LINKS AID PEACE

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 24.—Distinct possibility of a war between Japan and Russia is seriously considered by observers who know the Orient, according to P. D. Evans, a Reuter agent in China. Mr. Evans is on leave from his post in Shanghai, and is in Vancouver on route home to England.

A new factor which may mean maintenance of peace is recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States, Mr.
Evans believes.

"Japan is genuinely afraid of Soviet influence among her own people," Mr.
Evans said. "But more than that, she is afraid of her vulnerability to an attack from Soviet ports. The change in attitude toward the Chinese may indicate Japan would like to be sure of no attack in the rear if she takes on Russia."

RE DRAYCOTT LETTER

To the Editor:—Allow me to answer the above letter of the 18th, written by one, Althea Draycott, from "nowhere," who is going "nowhere."

The point of issue is not whether Mr. Davies' audience was attentive enough not to interrupt by questioning him during his address, but the fact that Mr. Davies, while proposing and promising questions, then very nicely evades it by closing his meeting.
Possibly where A. D. comes from—"nowhere"—they have the unmanly way of interrupting during the address to

"MIKADO" CAST
IS FINE ONE

Popular Local Singers Entrusted With Leading Roles
For Next Week's Opera

The casting committee of the Victoria Operatic Society is being complimented on its selection of principals to play leading roles in Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera
"The Mikado" which will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre, December 1 and 2.

Fred Wright, whose fine bass voice was heard to advantage in "Robin Hood" two seasons ago will portray the title role. He is excellent in "My Object all Sublime." Fraser Lister, whose talents have been seen in many light operas during the last few years will appear in the role of Ko Ko. To his lot falls that most famous of all Gilbert and Sullivan songs, "The Willow." Mr. Lister has much of the comedy in the opera. Harry Johns, a versatile singer, will be Foch Bah:
Arthur Partridge will be Fish Tush and Nelson Hicks will be Nanki Poo. In this role his pleasing tenor will be heard in a number of popular selections, chief of which is "A Wandering Minstrel."

Georgia Wait as Katisha, and Thelma Johns as Yum Yum have the leading female roles. Mrs. Wait's fine contralto will be heard in the operatic passages of the vehicle and Mrs. Johns' well trained soprano will be at its best in "The Moon and I."
Doreen Daniell, a visitor here from London, and Phyllis Desville will be Pittie Sing and keep so and will be heard with Mrs. Johns and chorus in the trio "Three Little Maids from School."

LAUGHTON'S WIFE
PLAYS IN PICTURE

Miss Lanchester, who plays so amusing role of Ann of Clevedon, fourth wife of England's Bluebeard of kings in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," United Artists release opening to-morrow at the Capitol Theatre, is the wife of its star Charles Laughton.

In order to make her likeness to the German duchess who was the unwilling bride of Henry, she had to wear a blonde wig, adopt a German accent and learn to make faces.

EMPIRE THEATRE

If an audience likes crime and plenty of it in the screen fare, "The Missing Rembrandt," the latest Sherlock Holmes adventure, now showing at the Empire Theatre, should be a rare treat.
According to its producers, "The Missing Rembrandt" is a story dealing with a wider variety of crime than has ever before been included in any screen play. Murder, theft, blackmail, kidnapping and dope smuggling are among the activities of the Baron, Sherlock's latest adversary. Arthur Wontner, seen in several recent Holmes pictures, again plays the role of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's great sleuth.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Mae West has more dynamic energy than any two other actresses in pictures. Take the word of Wesley Ruggles, her director, for that.

"Work, monotonous repetition, long hours, fatigue, apparently doing nothing to her," he declares. "She is going stronger at the end of a long, hard day than when she started."

She proved it to him during the filming of her latest starring picture for Paramount, "I'm No Angel," now showing at the Capitol Theatre. As Tina, the carnival dancer, Mae West stood for long hours rehearsing with scores of extras the scene in which she dances "the midway." And again, there were many rehearsals of the scenes in the film in which Mae West takes on the work of a lion tamer.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Leslie Howard, who plays opposite Mary Pickford in "Secrets," at the Columbia Theatre to-day, has three hobbies. They are amateur photography, writing and pipes.

The actor carries a camera with him wherever he goes, in and out of the studios, and he can be seen snapping photographs every spare moment. If he gets an idea for a unique angle, he is apt to disappear from the set and reappear himself a couple of minutes later, hanging from a rafter on a sound stage. He is liable to snap anybody or anything.

DOMINION THEATRE

Who killed Archer Coe?
That is the most baffling question that Philo Vance, the famous and debonair detective character created by S. S. Van Dine, and impersonated by William Powell in the Warner Bros. picture, "The Kennel Murder Case," which is at the Dominion Theatre, ever has been called upon to answer.

Archer Coe is found dead in his bedroom with a revolver in his hand and not a sign of a struggle and with the door locked. He has a bullet in his brain and a scalp abrasion.

The police consider it a case of suicide until Philo Vance walks into the scene and through a series of deductions proves that it is a murder and not a suicide and then proceeds to discover the murderer.

Scotland Worried Over Coming Soccer Match With Austria

Impellitteri Has Honor of Winning and Losing Same Fight

Jockey Herb Simmons Continues Fine Riding at Tanforan

NEXT WEDNESDAY Scotland will send the greatest soccer strength against Austria at Glasgow. Tremendous interest is being taken in the match, almost as much as the annual international clash with England, which, as a crowd attraction, is in a class by itself in the commercial capital of Scotland. A month ago all reserved seats were sold, a score or more of continental newspapers plan to send their experts to the game, and the Austrian ambassador at London is going north especially for the battle. Everything points to a sell-out as far as attendance is concerned, which means that the Scottish Football Association is likely to add a thousand or two pounds to its already bulging strong room.

While continental football teams are rapidly approaching the standard of the British teams it is generally conceded that the Austrians top them all. France has beaten good English teams and, not long ago Italy held the most powerful eleven that ever left England's shores to a tie, but Austria is the most feared enemy of the Scot. Less than a year ago an Austrian all-star squad invaded England and was beaten by only 4 to 3 by a team that could hardly have been improved upon. Scotland has good reason to fear the Austrians. At Vienna on May 16, 1931, the Scottish Football Association side was beaten 5 to 0. This humiliation Scotland has not forgotten. It's pride was hurt and the party returned home somewhat dejected; the more so as a few days later the same team was beaten by Italy 3 to 0. These defeats still rankle. The Austrians are determined to show the Scots they are just as good on foreign soil as they are on their own ground, so a great international battle should result.

The latest mastodon of the ring, Ray Impellitteri, 260 pounds of humanity, who made his debut against the veteran Tommy Loughran on Wednesday evening, can boast of a record of having won and lost the same bout. "The Imp" as he is nicknamed was the victim of one of the strangest rulings in the history of the boxing ring. After the referee had awarded him the bout on a technical knockout in the sixth round, the decision was overruled by General J. J. Phelan, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, who declared the fight was to continue. Loughran rallied to take the decision.

Impellitteri's case is a strange one. In five years he has fought only twelve bouts two of them main events. A year ago he was a preliminary boxer and appeared twice on cards in which Loughran was the principal. Few will recall that Gene Tunney figured in a similar instance. When Jack Dempsey crushed George Carpentier at Boyle's Thirty Acres in 1921 a fellow named Gene Tunney boxed Soldier Jones in one of the supporting bouts. Nobody paid any particular attention to Tunney and little space was devoted to him. Probably there was not one person in the crowd who dreamed that one day Tunney would enter the ring to fight Dempsey the little even before a bigger gathering. That is no one but Tunney. He had the idea then that he was ordained to become a champion of the world.

Apprentice Herb Simmons, a potent factor in racing on the Pacific Coast last winter, has stepped far into the lead in the race for winners among the numerous knights of the plume now playing their trade at the Tanforan course. At the conclusion of twelve days racing at the California track Simmons was the leading rider, with a margin over his rivals. Although few critics realize the fact, or give Simmons credit, the lad is one of the leading performers on the continent. Tunney and Jackie Westrope, this year's champion of North America. The most recent compilation credited him with 149 winners since January 1 and also revealed that he is getting nineteen per cent of his mounts down in front.

Jefferson Park To Cease "Free Gate"

Canadian Press

Jefferson Park, one of the best known horse racing tracks in the United States, has announced that it will cease its "free gate" policy. The track has been a popular destination for gamblers and spectators alike, but the "free gate" policy, which allowed gamblers to place bets without paying a fee, has been a source of controversy. The track's management has decided to end this policy, effective immediately. This move is expected to result in a significant increase in the track's revenue, as gamblers will now be required to pay a fee to place bets. The track's management has stated that this decision was made after careful consideration of the financial situation and the need to maintain the track's reputation as a premier racing venue.

Former In Narrow Win Over Ottawa; Hawks Beat Amerks

Boston Bruins Score Surprise in Third Game By Blanking Detroit 6 to 0

BARRY AND LAMB SCORING STARS

A potent scoring punch Boston uncovered, Chicago's rockbound defence and the edge Montreal Canadiens held over Ottawa had thrust new leaders into top positions in both sections of the National Hockey League today.

Results of three games yesterday evening combined to send Habitants a point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs in the Canadian division and enable Chicago Black Hawks to regain the United States section leadership they lost earlier in the week to Detroit.

Marty Barry and Joe Lamb, Bruin wingmen, each with three goals, made their seasonal debut as snipers when Boston whipped Detroit 6 to 0 in one of the infant schedule's greatest upsets.

Tight defences combined with scoring flashes gave Chicago a 2 to 0 win over New York Americans and Canadiens a 1 to 0 decision over Ottawa Senators.

The Detroit rearguard that had helped Jack Adams four wins in six games collapsed yesterday evening under Boston's determined offensive drive, and Wing forwards who had aided in a 4 to 2 win over Boston ten days ago and piled up other victories over Americans, Rangers and Ottawa got nowhere.

Barry and Lamb each scored in the first period and added two more in the second session. Bob Gracie and Nels Stewart got two assists each and Beattie and Clapper one.

The old kitty-bar-the-door defensive system that Tommy Gorman introduced in Ottawa and perfected when he managed New York Americans had made its appearance again in the Black Hawks' method. Gorman, now managing Chicago, used it yesterday evening to defeat Americans.

After Paul Thompson and Art Coulter had sniped goals early in the second period, Hawks threw up a defensive screen Americans could not penetrate. Canadiens had the better of the play throughout in their game with Ottawa and deserved the narrow win. Ottawa's rushes were ineffective and Lorne Chabot picked off their shots, most of them from the blue line, with ease.

Line-ups and summaries follow:

Canadiens—Chabot, S. Gauthier, Carson, Mores, Joliat and Gagnon. Subs: G. Mantha, Laroche, Lepine, Burne, Bourgeois, Mondou, Riley, Raymond and Godin.

Americans—Beveridge, Bowman, Ledue, Welland, Finnigan and Touhey. Subs: McMenley, Shields, Cox, Cook, Saunders, Shannon, Wasnie, Howe, D. Roche and E. Roche.

Calgary Chalks Up Second Hockey Win

Tigers Take Northwestern League Leadership By 4 to 1 Victory Over Seattle

Seattle, Nov. 24.—A rock-ribbed defence and a near perfect front line to-day had carried Calgary Tigers to the top of the heap in the Northwestern Professional Hockey League standings.

The prairie squad yesterday evening rode roughshod over the first Seattle Sea Hawks to a 4 to 1 victory for a perfect average in the two games they have played since the league opened.

Hawks were no match for the more finished Tigers. Not until late in the second period did the Seattle squad get within striking distance of the Calgary goal and then only once for their only counter of the game.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

Coupez sent Calgary away to a flying start with a goal with the first minute of play in the opening period.

Houbreges and Gainer rolled through to add another brace of tallies in the second session before Arbour flipped to 4.

Seattle started a fast offensive in the final period, but before they could get going Tigers had added another goal.

Crafty Dutch Gainer, former big time star and one of the greatest playmakers of the league, stickhandled through the whole Seattle team and passed to Hutton, who scored two minutes after the period opened.

Line-ups follow:

Calgary—McCauley, goal; Houbreges, defence; Gainer, centre; Sutherland and Coupez, wings. Subs: Blythe, Harris, Anderson, Heard and Hutton.

Babe Ruth Will Not Pilot Newark

Associated Press

New York, Nov. 24.—Suggestion that Babe Ruth next year may manage Newark Bears, International League "farm" of the New York Yankees, possibly as a stepping stone to eventual leadership of the Yankees, met with authoritative denial yesterday. Nevertheless, it revived speculation on the famous slugger's baseball future.

Although the Babe himself, off hunting pheasants near Middletown, N.Y., was non-committal, George Weiss turned thumbs down on the idea as official spokesman for Col. Jacob Ruppel, part owner of the Yankee baseball system.

"I only wish it was true from a Newark standpoint, but it's too far fetched to consider and there's nothing to it," Weiss said.

Gordon Slade Sold To Reds

St. Louis, Nov. 24.—Gordon Slade, who served as the Cardinals' reserve shortstop for the greater part of the 1933 season, has been sold to Cincinnati Reds, Sam Breadon, Cardinals' president, announced yesterday evening. The price was not disclosed.

U.S. Golf Moguls Propose Important Changes In Rules

Alterations Are Aimed at Simplifying and Bringing Code Up to Date

Royal and Ancient Must Give Approval

New York, Nov. 24.—With the approval of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, the executive committee of the United States Golf Association to-day announced adoption of a long series of changes in the rules, effective January 1, 1934.

Generally speaking the alterations are aimed at simplifying the language of the rules, clarifying ambiguities and bringing the code up to date and in conformity with modern conditions and modern golfing architecture.

The changes, approved at the Royal and Ancient, were the fruit of a year's discussions between the two associations.

Among the changes are:

A change in the definition of a hazard so that a path or bush no longer are considered hazards and scrapes and casual water and all tracks are excluded from the definition of hazards.

An amendment to rule 2 providing that unless the ball lies in or touches a hazard, the removal of loose impediments is now permitted, even though they are more than a club's length from the ball and even if the loose impediment lies in a hazard.

An amendment to rule 15, adding a provision that before striking at a ball in play a player shall not move the position of his ball by moving, bending or breaking anything fixed or growing.

MAY BE TESTED

An amendment to subdivision one, rule 27, so that now when a ball is played from the teeing ground into a water hazard it may be tested. Formerly it had to be dropped.

A change in subdivision two, rule 28, so that a ball which is lost or out of play may be replaced by another ball.

In the strike rules, some of the changes made were: Subdivision two, rule 8, has been altered to make the penalty two strokes instead of disqualification for playing one or more strokes with a wrong club.

Rule 9 has been altered to make the penalty two strokes instead of one when a competitor's ball strikes himself, his caddy or his club.

Rule 13, subdivision two, changed to increase the penalty from one stroke to two where a competitor on the putting green strikes the ball of his fellow competitor. The same change was made in subdivision five where a competitor lifts his ball while his fellow competitor's ball is in motion, both being on the green.

British Yachtsmen Are Seeking Three International Cups

Much Concern in the United States Over Triple Offensive Planned For 1934

SCOTLAND CLUB HAS CHALLENGED

Canadian Press
New York, Nov. 24.—There is nervous apprehension in yachting circles of the United States as the battle lines are drawn for what promises to be the greatest international season in the history of the water sport in this country. British yachtsmen have announced they will direct a triple offensive in 1934 against American holders of the three most famous cups offered for competition among the world's yachting fraternity.

To start with, the Royal Yacht Squadron of Cowes, Isle of Wight, will send forth T. O. M. Sopwith, the Class J yacht Endeavor, to race against a yacht representing the New York Yacht Club, for the famous America's Cup.

Sopwith, a skillful helmsman and a famous designer and builder of airplanes, will try to do what Sir Thomas Lipton strove so valiantly to do before he died, to win and take back to England the historic trophy which crossed the Atlantic many years ago. The races for the cup will be held off Newport, R.I.

ANOTHER CHALLENGE

Great Britain has also challenged for the British-American Cup and will send over a team of six-metre class boats to meet the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club of Oyster Bay, holders of the cup. These races will be held off Long Island in late September. The British-American Cup must be won two years successively for permanent possession. In 1922 American yachtsmen won the cup with four straight victories over the British yachts on the Solent, off the Hampshire Coast, England.

The other important international contest, scheduled for decision in early October, is for the Seawanhaka International Challenge Cup. The Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club has accepted a challenge from the Royal Northern Yacht Club of Scotland, which has been accepted.

This trophy has long been considered the most important of all international small-yacht prizes and is competed for by six-metre class craft. The Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club won it for Canada in 1898 and successfully defended it until 1904. The Canadian yachtsmen finally yielded the cup to the Manchester Yacht Club in 1905.

MONTREAL TO MEET ARGOS

Battle To-morrow in Second Game of Big Four Canadian Football Play-off

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Toronto Argonauts carry the slim margin of a single point into the final struggle for the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union championship against Montreal here to-morrow. This all-important final battle between the two strongest teams of the Big Four will decide whether the Double Blue or the Montreals continue in search of the Dominion senior title.

Dominion championship plans of the Canadian Rugby Union have been held in abeyance until the Big Four declare their champions.

Total points decided the series, as it is Tommy Burns and company can hold or increase their one-point lead here to-morrow by a single point to carry on their campaign for the senior Dominion title.

Montreal was speculating on chances of favorable football weather for to-morrow, rain and a bright sun during the week have reduced the snow.

Coach Clarry-Ford has been drilling his wing line this week and hopes to stop the Toronto tank corps. Given a dry field, Ford hopes to see his team's forward-pass offensive clicking better than last week when the Montreals were unable to complete a single toss.

Toronto are confident, though, Lou Hayman is counting on the blasting punts of Box and Munro to hold the Montreal men.

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 24.—An unofficial test trial match got under way to-day between New South Wales and the "rest of Australia." Stanley McCabe for the state eleven put on 110 runs in three hours.
Scores at the conclusion of to-day's play were: New South Wales 273 (McCabe 110); the rest 27 for one wicket.

CANADIAN ARMY RIDER INJURED

Lieut. Churchill Mann Hurt When His Horse Falls at Toronto Show

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Tied with two others for first place in the military performance for international army officers at the Royal Horse Show yesterday evening, Lieut. Churchill Mann of the Canadian Army suffered a slight concussion and other injuries when his horse fell while making his second appearance of the night, and he was taken to the hospital.

Officials of the fair, instead of ordering a jump-off between Lieut. H. Sachs, Sweden, and Major T. Cole, United States, the others who had scored clean performances, decided to toss a coin and the Swedish officer won.

Major Cole was awarded second place and the third prize ribbon was pinned on a representative of the injured Canadian official.

English Football Elevens Open Play In Cup Competition

Sixty-eight Teams Will Be Engaged To-morrow in Classic Competition

Important Games In First Division

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 24.—While sixty-eight teams, including all English League third division clubs, battle in the first round of the cup ties to-morrow, Tottenham Hotspurs, clinging to a single-point lead in the first division of the league, entertain Derby County in London.

The Spurs are optimistic of strengthening their hold on first place because the Arsenal, league champions and now in second place, are matched with the tough Rotherham Town eleven, third place holders. Arsenal will make some positional changes, though fielding their regular men. The Spurs will use their regular team against Derby County.

Birmingham, going to Chelsea, will be without Hibbs, their international goalie, but will replace him with Ewaly, Welsh international.
Port Vale and Grimsby Town have hard tussles on their hands as they strive to break their deadlock for leadership of the second division. The Vale go to Bolton Wanderers' grounds, and Grimsby are at home to Hull City. Brentford and Fulham are putting on a London "Derby," with their regular eleven, Mills. Clapton Orient's international, has been much sought after since he appeared for Wales against England, and apparently in prospect of his departure the Orient have signed on Rogers, Welsh international, who appeared against England and Scotland two seasons ago.

Middlesbrough are advertising for a successor to Peter McWilliams, their manager, who leaves at the end of the present season. McWilliams is one of the highest paid officials in the game, his salary being estimated at $8,000.

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 24.—Motherwell, undefeated in Scottish football league games this season in eighteen starts, expect no trouble in adding to their record when they meet St. Mirren at Motherwell, to-morrow.

The Glasgow Rangers, league champions, six points back of Motherwell, will take on Falkirk. The Rangers are smarting under the defeat administered by St. Johnstone a week ago in one of the biggest upsets of the season, and will take no chances against the victors.

Aberdeen and Ayr United, deadlocked for third position, take on St. Johnstone and Dundee, respectively.

Dundfermline and Stenhousemuir will continue tied for second division leadership, by all the prospects, after to-morrow's matches. The former travel to Forth's Athletic, while Stenhousemuir are at home to St. Bernard's.

Canzoneri Will Meet Chocolate

Pair Battle Over Ten-round Route at Madison Square Garden To-night

New York, Nov. 24.—The curtains roll back two years in Madison Square Gardens to-night when Tony Canzoneri, once champion of the featherweight and lightweight divisions, meets an old rival in Kid Chocolate, the dazzling Cuban who holds one leg on the featherweight title. The bout is scheduled for ten rounds.

Two years ago, when Canzoneri still had his lightweight crown, they fought fifteen rounds for the title in the Garden and Tony won.

The gate receipts that night ran above $90,000. Both were at their peaks.
But time has taken some of the gloss from Canzoneri, as well as his second title, won by Barney Ross, Chicago, and held against a comeback assault, Chocolate, growing out of the featherweight class where his title claim is disputed by Freddie Miller, the National Boxing Association ruler, has faded somewhat. To-night, at 85 tops, the most optimistic estimate of the receipts is $20,000.

BILLIARDS

Although Sam Oakes, city champion, dropped his encounter with N. Cameron, Pro Patria defeated the Island Club 723 to 590 in the A section of the City Billiard League.

In the B division of the Inter-Service League, the Army and Navy scored a decisive win over the Veterans of France, the score being 743 to 599. Army and Navy also won the C division game against the Pro Patria Somme by a count of 443 to 409.

U.S. Pit Stronger
And Winnipeg Wheat
Climbs From Bottom

Winnipeg, Nov. 24.—Late strength at Chicago, which lightened selling pressure on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, lifted prices from bottom levels to-day and final quotations were unchanged to 1/2 cent above the previous close.

Trading became more active in the late dealings as offerings thinned and buyers entered the pit. Strength in the southern market was attributed to traders' anticipation of a bullish movement by President Franklin Roosevelt at Washington to-night.

November wheat closed at 63 1/2, December at 62 1/2, May at 67 1/2 and July at 68 1/2 cents.

As Chicago turned firm in late dealings, the price structure strengthened at Winnipeg. Early weakness was attributed to selling by Chicago interests. This soon petered out.

Export business had no visible effect on the market. Shippers were loath to place a figure on the movement. Liverpool wheat closed 1/4 higher, and Buenos Aires prices were 3/4 to 1/2 higher at noon. Wheat shipments from the Argentine totalled 428,000 bushels.

Cash grains trade was small. Coarse grains prices firmed in the late stages in sympathy with wheat.

Chicago, Nov. 24 (Associated Press).—Corn took the leadership of the grain markets to-day, and jumped more than two cents a bushel, pulling wheat up to almost equal degree.

Indications were that within the last three days more than 200,000 bushels of corn had been bought for export, both to Great Britain and to continental European countries.

Corn and wheat both closed unsettled, corn 1 1/2-1 3/4 above yesterday's finish, wheat 1 1/2 up, oats 3/4-1 cent advanced, and provisions varying from twelve cents decline to a rise of fifty cents.

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA FAVORED

Calgary, Nov. 24.—Russia must have capital and for the last sixteen years she has always paid her commercial debt to Dr. Sherwood Eddy, world traveler, interviewed here.

"Recognition of Russia by the United States," he added, "does not only mean an advance in prosperity of both countries, but also is another step towards maintaining the peace of the world."

Dr. Eddy declared the British Empire, United States and Russia have a common stake in the Orient and the Far East and must combine for world peace in the face of "the Japanese menace in China and the Orient."

Dr. Eddy will deliver addresses in Victoria this Sunday in the Metropolitan United Church.

TURNED ON OWN WATER

Port Alberni, Nov. 24.—For turning on the water service to his premises after it had been shut off by the waterworks superintendent, a local business man paid a fine of $5 and costs in police court this week.

Daily Health Service

BALANCE YOUR MENUS

Plan Your Meals for Entire Day to Include All Necessary Health-building Constituents, Say Food Specialists

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

"Eat what you want after you have eaten what you should."

Keep this advice in mind when you pick your food. You'll be sure of well-balanced meals to guard and prolong your health.

At least, you won't make the mistake of several young women in the Y.W.C.A. cafeteria at Baltimore, when diet authorities of Johns Hopkins hospital observed them choose menus like these:

(1) Meat pie, stewed tomatoes, white mufins, bread.

(2) Corn beef hash, mashed potatoes, succotash, bread, cornbread, butter.

(3) Meat pie, raised biscuits, potato salad, coffee.

(4) Beef croquette, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, bread, butter.

Not one of these diets had chicken, a suitable meat, for each of the menus was deficient in some necessary constituents to the diet. A suitable diet involves proper combination of foods so what is lacking in one substance is provided by another.

You'll correct most of the errors in your diet by taking a quart of milk a day, with a liberal serving of green vegetables. The milk may be in the form of the liquid or as ice cream, cream soup, creamed vegetables, custards or butter.

Also, say dietetic specialists as Dr. E. V. McCollum and Miss J. E. Beecher, salad should be eaten twice a day.

A salad is meant a mixture of herbs, vegetables, fruits, lettuce, celery or watercress, usually served with salt, oil, vinegar, and pepper. The taking of fruits, cabbage, celery, and tomatoes provides plenty of vitamin C and also encourages chewing.

LATE RALLY
AT MONTREAL

Canadian Press.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—The Montreal Stock Exchange staged a slight recovery in late trading in to-day's session and many early losses were wiped out. Leaders were mostly higher at the close.

Bruce Silk was active on reports of payment of the regular quarterly dividend and closed up one at 18. International Nickel gained 35 cents at 21 1/2 and Brazilian 3 1/2 at 11 1/2. Gains from 1/2 to 1 1/2 were displayed by Dryden, Montreal Power and a few others. St. Lawrence Flour preferred sold off four points at 96. Dominion Bank eased eight points at 132. Consolidated Smelters was 3 1/2 lower at 131.

EASTERN MINES
RANGE NARROW

Canadian Press.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Confused by the gyrations of exchange, mining shares moved narrowly to-day and Standard Exchange closing prices showed little change. Narrow losses recorded in a noon sale were largely reversed by the close.

Lake Shore was up 75 cents, McIntyre 50 cents, Deane unchanged at 28 1/2, and Pioneer gained 20 cents to 6.80. Moderate selling appeared in secondary golds but Howe lost two. Despite a drop in the price of bar silver, Eldorado pulled ahead 11 cents to $3.60, and Nipissing held unchanged, but Mining Corporation slipped four to 1.70.

Oil stocks were inactive. Home Oil held unchanged at 1.45.

THINKS PAINTING
WRONGLY TITLED

Associated Press.

Raleigh, N.C., Nov. 24.—An art-minded professor believes he has "discovered" through photographic aid, one of the world's longest lost and most famous paintings—Leonardo Da Vinci's "Birth of Christ."

J. D. Paulson, assistant professor of architecture at the North Carolina State College, in announcing his findings, contended the painting for 400 years has been erroneously titled "Adoration of the Kings," and incorrectly ascribed to Botticelli, celebrated Florentine.

Should All Women Chance Matrimony, Even If Outlook Is Dubious? — Polly Pry

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you believe that women really care for freedom and independence? If they do, why do widows marry again so soon? I have yet failed to see a wife who wished she was an old maid. I have in mind a woman whose life has been a tragedy through a worthless husband, but I know that if she had her life to live over again she would choose matrimony in preference to single blessedness. I know another woman who has a brute of a husband who abuses her, neglects her and doesn't provide her with the common comforts of life, yet this same woman will sit for hours and talk of her wedding, her trousseau, her honeymoon and a hundred other little incidents that give her untold happiness even after twenty years. So I say let all women take a chance at marriage. Let them have a memory to carry through life of a man's love, even if it was short lived.

These lines are written by a woman who has the dearest, kindest, most thoughtful husband in the world.

MRS. M.

Answer—You wouldn't be such an ardent advocate of matrimony, Mrs. M., if you had known the heartbreak and disillusion that comes to the woman who makes an unfortunate marriage. You have not known abuse and cruelty from the man you trusted. You have not known what it was to be betrayed and flouted by the man into whose hands you had put your life and who broke it and threw it away as carelessly as he would have done a toy of which he was tired.

If you had personally gone through the hell that so many husbands drag their wives through, you would feel that it was a wise woman who played safe and who looked a man over very carefully before she risked her happiness by taking a wild chance on marrying, on the principle that any sort of a husband is better than no husband at all.

I will not argue with you on the proposition that the happily married woman is the happiest woman in the world, and that a good husband is better than any career. But the opposite of this is also true, and the unhappily married woman is the most miserable woman in the world. It is a million times better not to have any husband at all than not to have a good one.

On the other hand, while the lot of the old maid may lack some of the thrills and excitement of the married woman, it likewise lacks many of its drawbacks. The spinster may not have the memories of her wedding day and her honeymoon to gloat over, but neither does she have her recollections of a drunken brute who came home and beat her, or of the agony of jealousy she went through when she found out about some other woman.

Certainly any woman must be morbidly sentimental who can live upon the crumbs of her moldering wedding cake after her husband has failed to supply her with fresh bread and butter. I should think that to any normal woman every recollection of her lost love would be a separate torment. You remember the poet said that "A sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things."

You say you never knew a wife, however unhappily married, who wished she had remained an old maid. Probably not, for there is still a stigma that attaches among the unthinking and the old-fashioned to spinsterhood. But I have known many married women who wished they were widows. And if, as you say, widows nearly always remarry, it is because hope springs eternal in the human breast, and they always hope they will have better luck next time.

Undoubtedly marriage is good for a woman's spiritual development, whether she gets a good husband or a bad one. It broadens her outlook, it curbs her selfishness. It teaches her patience and forbearance, for in marriage there has to be an adjustment of the two people, and it is generally the wife who has to do the adjusting.

But don't pity the old maid. Many of the happiest and best-contented women I know are spinsters.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—What is your opinion of a woman who is so curious about the ages of her friends and neighbors that she takes the trouble to go down where the vital records are kept and look up their birthdays?

NELLIE.

Answer—I think she is an utterly vulgar Polly Pry, with very little to interest and amuse her.

But why do you care? What difference does it make? Age is no disgrace, and, besides, everybody who knows us has a pretty good line upon how old we are.

Of course, we kid ourselves into thinking that we look ten years under our age, and that everybody thinks we are mere flappers, and we tell everybody that we married very young, and that we are prematurely grey, and so on. But the only one we fool is ourself.

However, any woman who will take the trouble to look up the official record of her friends' and neighbors' ages certainly has a genius for making herself unpopular. The first thing you know that woman is going to be mysteriously poisoned.

A Journey to Persia

IN DESERT AND CITY
"People die of the cold at one end of the country and roast to death at the other end."

Those words are the meaning of a statement supposed to have been made by Cyrus, an ancient king of Persia. It is a strong statement, but it points to the fact that Persia's climate differs level; but it does not have a proper outlet because it is in a basin surrounded by mountains.

Roaming over the mountains and deserts of Persia are tribes of nomads. They include Turks, Arabs and Kurds; and they make their living chiefly by attending to herds. They also spend part of the time robbing caravans. Leaving the farming and desert region, we visit a city—Tahris—which is between the Lake of Urmia and the Caspian Sea, and soon our attention is captured by a school in session. We do not need to enter a doorway to see the pupils—one side of the place is open to the street.

We notice that all the pupils are boys. They are making a good deal of noise, but when we ask about it we find that they are reading the Koran aloud, as they are supposed to do. The Koran is the sacred book of the Mohammedans, and it is the chief study of school pupils. A man is watching over the boys. He is the teacher, and he holds a switch which he uses now and then. How would you like to study under a teacher who kept a switch in his hand?

O'Leary, P.E.I., Nov. 24.—Smoldering ruins were all that remained to-day of this village's commercial district, used as a produce storing depot by farmers in the surrounding countryside. Three big warehouses, filled with more than 100,000 bushels of potatoes and other field crops, were destroyed by flames. Initial estimates placed the loss between $75,000 and $100,000.

Nearly all the 500 villagers, aided by neighboring farmers, formed into a bucket brigade and were able to repel the blaze. Timely arrival of a Canadian National Railway locomotive saved a string of forty freight cars.

Twelve-year-old Lorne Silliker was struck by falling bricks, but escaped serious injury.

NELLIE.

Answer—I think she is an utterly vulgar Polly Pry, with very little to interest and amuse her.

But why do you care? What difference does it make? Age is no disgrace, and, besides, everybody who knows us has a pretty good line upon how old we are.

Of course, we kid ourselves into thinking that we look ten years under our age, and that everybody thinks we are mere flappers, and we tell everybody that we married very young, and that we are prematurely grey, and so on. But the only one we fool is ourself.

However, any woman who will take the trouble to look up the official record of her friends' and neighbors' ages certainly has a genius for making herself unpopular. The first thing you know that woman is going to be mysteriously poisoned.

A Journey to Persia

"People die of the cold at one end of the country and roast to death at the other end."

Those words are the meaning of a statement supposed to have been made by Cyrus, an ancient king of Persia. It is a strong statement, but it points to the fact that Persia's climate differs level; but it does not have a proper outlet because it is in a basin surrounded by mountains.

Roaming over the mountains and deserts of Persia are tribes of nomads. They include Turks, Arabs and Kurds, and they make their living chiefly by attending to herds. They also spend part of their time robbing caravans.

Leaving the faraway and desert region, we visit a city—Tahris— which is between the Lake of Urmia and the Caspian Sea, and soon our attention is captured by a school in session. We do not need to enter a doorway to see the pupils—one side of the place is open to the street.

We notice that all the pupils are boys. They are making a good deal of noise, but when we ask about it we find that they are reading the Koran aloud, as they are supposed to do. The Koran is the sacred book of the Mohammedans, and it is the chief study of school children in Persia. The teacher, over the boys, is the teacher, and he holds a switch which he uses now and then. How would you like to study under a teacher who kept a switch in his hand?

The leaflet called "Marvels of the Sky" contains a diagram showing sizes of the planets and their distance from the sun. It tells about Donati's comet and other wonders. If you want a copy, without charge, send a stamped return envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

O'Leary, P.E.I., Nov. 24.—Smoldering ruins were all that remained today of this village's commercial district, used as a produce storing depot by farmers in the surrounding countryside. Three big warehouses, filled with more than 100,000 bushels of potatoes and other field crops, were destroyed by flames. Initial estimates placed the loss between $75,000 and $100,000.

Nearly all the 500 villagers, aided by neighboring farmers, formed into a bucket brigade and were able to repel the blaze. Timely arrival of a Canadian National Railway locomotive saved a string of forty freight cars.

Twelve-year-old Lorne Sullivan was struck by falling bricks, but escaped serious injury.
